TROPIC STORMS SWEEP NEW YORK CITY AREA

DESCRIBED AS OF CYCLONIC SHAPE, DO MUCH DAMAGE

MINOR CYCLONES AT RIDGEFIELD, N. J., GLEN COVE, LONG ISLAND, ETC.

LONG ISLAND TOWN ALSO HAD WATERSPOUT AND A "TIDAL WAVE"

New York, Aug. 17. — (UP) — Tropic storms which in two districts were described as of cyclonic character caused heavy damage over the New York metropolitan area last night.

The minor cyclones were reported at Ridgefield, N. J., and Glen Cove, Long Island, while severe thunder storms swept other districts. At Glen Cove and Sea Cliff, L. I., witnesses reported the descent of a waterspout and a wall of water comparable to a tidal wave.

One man was killed and another reported missing during the storm. Six persons are known to have been injured. Thirty-five houses, a church and a lumber yard were destroyed, property damage was estimated at half a million dollars.

The storm lasted for more than three hours and the rain fall in places was nearly an inch and a half. Low lying streets were flooded and many sections were two feet under water. Cellars and subway stations were flooded in Brooklyn and Queens and hundreds of autoists were marooned.

The big terminal of the B. M. T. subway at Coney Island was two feet deep in water and police carried out many women and children who had climbed on benches and railings.

Witnesses to the storm at Glen Cove reported that they had seen a water spout corkscrew inshore from the ocean as the thunderstorm descended. The storm spread ruin along half a mile of the ocean front.

Electric cables and practically all outside wires were crippled and tangled by the storm, cutting off electric power and leaving the residents of several of the shore colonies in darkness.

Witnesses described the appearance of the storm variously as "a wave gathering off the ocean and spreading shoreward" and "a rushing wind that whistled and was accompanied with masses of low white clouds that advanced spinning and whirling like a top."

At Richwood where the cyclonic wind attained its highest velocity, a church was destroyed and many smaller buildings and stores were wrecked.

A lumber yard, in the path of the wind, was plucked apart and timber strewn for a quarter of a mile in the vicinity.

WOMAN DOCTOR HAS HER LIQUOR LICENSE REVOKED

Chicago, Aug. 17.—(UP)—A woman physician—Dr. Effie L. Lobdell—has had her license to issue liquor prescriptions revoked because "I was honest in reasons for giving the prescriptions."

Dr. Lobdell is well known among medical practitioners in Chicago. She has practiced here since 1891 and is chief woman physician on the staff of the Illinois hospital.

"Yes, I know why my license was revoked," she said, "it was because I was honest."

She said she issued prescriptions for friends who were going traveling —people who were accustomed to a drink—and also for culinary purposes.

"My mistake it seems was in being perfectly honest about it," Dr. Lobdell said. "I wrote on the prescription what I issued it for. I thought it better to be perfectly honest about it. You know, we physicians have always resented the act of placing the prohibition problem on our shoulders.

"We have never recognized that liquor is more medicinal now than it was before.

NEW PROHIBITION AIR FLEET CHANGES

Washington, Aug. 17.—(UP)—Plans for reinforcing America's new prohibition air fleet were being considered by Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Andrews today.

The two men were rescued from the lake by two naval students who swam to the wrecked plane.

WORLD COURT VIEWS OF THE ADMINISTRATION

HOPE LARGE NATIONS WHICH ARE MEMBERS WILL ACCEPT U. S. ENTRY

SECRETARY KELLOGG DISCOURAGED OVER THE OUTLOOK

By JOHN MONTGOMERY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Paul Smith's, N. Y., Aug. 17. — The Coolidge adminstration hopes that the large nations which are world court members will accept American membership in the world court on the conditions laid down by congress.

While four of the 48 members have signified their approval of American entrance, Secretary of State Kellogg, a summer White House guest, feels that if the United States waits long enough, it can be admitted.

"I am confident of the final outcome," Kellogg told newspapermen, "but it probably will take a long time."

Kellogg seemed discouraged, however, over the small number of world court members who want America in the court. All four approvals came from minor countries.

Kellogg said that most of the countries are withholding their decision until the league conference at Geneva next month, when American entrance will be the most important subject of discussion.

DOMESTIC BUSINESS FOR 1926 TO REACH ENORMOUS FIGURES

Chicago, Aug. 17.—(UP)—Domestic business for 1926 will exceed the $100,000,000,000 mark, according to a report made public today by the central division of the National Association of Credit Men.

The report says business conditions are sound and that the credit machinery is functioning well but warns business men to "keep their heads and not gamble with the credit system."

"In steel production and in the production of other basic commodities a high peak has been maintained even in the summer months. The bank clearings for the year will exceed the clearings of the past year. Commercial failures while showing a small difference in number as compared with last year, yet show a substantial decrease in liabilities," the report states.

The report also points out there has been a decline in the export balance which the association attributes to the tense financial situation of many of the nations in which American business men are accustomed to trade.

INDIANS TRAIL DOWN ESCAPED CIRCUS ELEPHANTS

Winnipeg, Man., Aug. 17.—(UP)—Indians have captured the smallest of three elephants which have been at large in the Cranbrook, B. C., district for 10 days. It was located two or three days ago at a spot a few miles north of Cranbrook and closely watched by Indians.

The Indians are still on the trail of the other two animals which became separated from the others shortly after the escape from the circus.

TRACING TAN COAT OF MRS. FRANCES S. HALL

SENT TO DYEING HOUSE IMMEDIATELY AFTER HALL-MILLS MURDER

DR. HALL'S SPECTACLES AND CLOTHING INTRODUCED IN EVIDENCE

By PAUL W. WHITE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Somerville, N. J., Aug. 17. — A hearing to determine whether Willie Stevens, eccentric, and Henry De La Bruyeri Carpender, Wall Street broker, should be held for complicity in the famous Hall-Mills murder case opened today with Mrs. Hall's tan coat the center of interest.

Charles Collins, detective, was the first witness. He told of having traced to Philadelphia the tan cloak and scarf which Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall had sent to a dyeing establishment there immediately after the murder of the Rev. Edward W. Hall, her husband.

He declared his purpose was to learn whether the cloak and scarf were bloodstained and as far as he could learn they were not.

Clothing had been a source of much controversy.

Opening of today's session of the hearing which was attended by some 400 men, women and girls, was delayed half an hour by mysterious conferences between the attorneys and the court. Testimony started without and developments from the conferences being announced, however.

Stevens and Carpender came to their seats within the rail, accompanied by officers, Carpender serious and Stevens appearing bewildered—as usual.

There was the accustomed craning of necks in the court room as the two were led in. The day was exceedingly hot. Men sat coatless and women fanned themselves with papers.

Many witnesses were present, but there was no indication of what ones would prove of importance.

Before adjournment, Dr. Hall's spectacles and clothing were introduced in evidence. All were alleged to have been taken from the body of Dr. Hall.

Dr. William H. Long, county physician at the time of the murders, described the condition of the bodies of Mrs. Mills and Dr. Hall. He told how Mrs. Mills' throat had been cut while Dr. Hall had been shot to death but bore no knife wounds.

The hearing was adjourned shortly before noon for the lunch recess. Peter Tumulty, former chauffeur for Mrs. Hall, was called before adjournment and will be the first witness at this afternoon's session. Before Tumulty was called, Dr. William H. Long, who was county physician at the time of the murders, was examined. He testified about the condition of the bodies and said that Mrs. Mills' throat had been cut, apparently with a sharp knife. Questioned about the hasty burial of Hall and the delay in the autopsy, he disclaimed responsibility and said he had turned the entire affair over to the county prosecutor.

Somerville, N. J., Aug. 17.—The state today revealed that it was prepared to write into records of the New Jersey courts a long story designed to fix the guilt in the famous Hall-Mills murder case on three persons now under arrest.

After yesterday's unexpected testimony in the hearing of Willie Stevens, village eccentric, and Henry De La Bruyere Carpender, Wall street broker, corroborative of the story told by Mrs. Jane Gibson, "the pig woman," word went out that 46 witnesses were under summons to testify.

While the court may end the hearing at any time, indications today were that it would not be concluded for another day at least. Should the court become convinced, however, that sufficient evidence has been brought in to warrant holding Stevens and Carpender for complicity in the killing, then the investigation might be terminated to await action by the grand jury.

The witnesses still to be called are expected to give corroborative testimony to that already given.

LOUIS BLERIOT, OLD TIMER, REPEATS CHANNEL FLIGHT

London, Aug. 17.—(UP)—Louis Bleriot, who in 1909 was the first man to fly across the English channel, repeated his feat yesterday.

In 1909 Bleriot piloted a 25-horsepower monoplane. Yesterday he was in a 420-horsepower Bristol machine. Bleriot was a passenger this time on his second channel flight.

MINERS DO NOT LIKE VIEW OF PREMIER

CONDEMN THE RECENT SIGNED STATEMENT OF BALDWIN

CONFERENCE OF MINERS' DELEGATES NOW IN SESSION AT LONDON

London, Aug. 17.—(UP)—Premier Baldwin's recent signed statement to the United Press, was condemned today by the delegate conference of miners in session here.

In a resolution protesting against the statement the miners said it "affords further evidence that the government definitely has decided to assist the mine owners to defeat the miners by starvation."

The premier's statement dealt especially with food and related conditions in the mine areas. There was no starvation, Baldwin wrote; huge sums were being expended in poor relief; and close watch was being kept on the health of women and children of miners.

London, Aug. 17.—The delegate conference representing the miners of Great Britain today voted to authorize the miners' federation to open negotiations with the mine owners and the government in an effort to settle the dispute which has kept the pits idle since April 30.

With each delegate voting for all the men he represented, the peace move was sanctioned by 428,000 votes to 360,000.

CHECKING UP CRIME RECORD

THOMAS JOHNSON, "MAN OF MANY CRIMES," PUZZLES POLICE

Minneapolis, Minn., Aug. 17. — (UP)—The task of checking the criminal record of Thomas Johnson, "the man of many crimes," was simplified when Johnson turned the tables at a police "show up" and identified seven additional Minneapolis victims.

Johnson did not approve of the police plan to have holdup victims who recognized him identify him, but instead walked up and down the line of persons, stopping now and then to pick out a man and relate the details of a robbery. The victims confirmed the details, some of which had been forgotten.

As a result, the number of crimes charged to Johnson following his removal from Seattle was increased to 21, including a holdup in Aberdeen, S. D., July 9, when Mrs. Chas. Tatum was robbed of $300 and two diamond rings.

COUPLE KILLED WHEN COUPE HIT BY TRAIN

Waukesha, Wis., Aug. 17.—(UP)—An investigation was under way here today into the deaths of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Aldrich of Huntley, Ill., who were killed when the small coupe in which they were riding was struck by a train near here.

The automobile was tossed to one side of the track a mass of tangled wreckage. When train men reached the scene the two were dead. Identification was made by cards in Aldrich's pockets.

Correspondence found on the body indicated Aldrich was an employe of the Citizens' Wholesale Supply Co., of Columbus, Ohio.

LOUIS MASER OF CANTON CHARGED SLAYING MELLETT

CLAIMED HE KILLED NATIONALLY KNOWN PUBLISHER

ARREST IS FIRST MADE SINCE CRIME COMMITTED MONTH AGO

Canton, O., Aug. 17. — (UP) — Louis Maser, Canton underworld character, held by federal authorities in Cleveland, was charged with the murder of Don R. Mellett, publisher of the Canton Daily News, in a warrant sworn out here last night.

The arrest was the first since the crime was committed more than a month ago on a charge other than suspicion. Maser was taken yesterday with Carl Studer, an associate, on charges of conspiracy to violate the prohibition law. The murder warrant was sworn out later.

In a statement issued by Joseph Roach, Chicago criminal prosecutor, immediately after Justice of the Peace Bruce Correll issued the warrant, it was explained that Maser was arrested entirely on evidence gathered by Ora Slater, Cincinnati detective, and his assistant, George Armstrong.

Roach also said at least ten others are involved in the murder, among them several members of the police department.

Warrants for further arrests are expected. The first murder charge was based on an affidavit sworn out by Michael Glenn, one of Roach's assistants.

The first actual murder charge in the now-famous case was dramatic. All the principal investigators were assembled when the murder warrant was issued. Then Roach made his statement charging 10 others with complicity, charges that respected police officials played a part in the shooting from ambush of the young editor, unarmed and helpless, because he was waging a newspaper campaign against lawlessness and corruption. Maser first came under suspicion because he was one of the group whom Mellett's campaign was affecting.

Then testimony of Steve Koscholk, the informer, who said he had been hired with Patrick McDermott, for whom a nation-wide search is under way, to "beat up" Mellett but withdrew from the plot because he feared the consequences, involved Maser by identifying his automobile and photographs.

It was Maser's automobile, according to Koscholk, in which he and McDermott were driven from Massillon to Canton to see the layout of the Mellett home preparatory to execution of their proposed "job." He also said it was Maser who drove the automobile. Koscholk will be taken to Cleveland today to see Maser himself.

CLAIMED HE'S READY TO "SPILL EVERYTHING"

Cleveland, O., Aug. 17. — Louis Maser, Canton underworld habitue, charged with the murder of Don R. Mellett, is ready to "spill everything" to satisfy his appetite for narcotics, according to reports today from the county jail where he is held.

"Give me one pill and I'll spill everything," Maser pleaded following a night of confinement, it was learned from one of his jailers, a deputy sheriff.

County jail authorities, under order from federal officers who arrested Maser yesterday on a charge of conspiracy to violate the pohibition law before the murder warrant was sworn out, refused the prisoner drugs.

Maser is a known addict. This morning, acoording to authorities, he was in a frenzy, ready to do anything for relief from drug starvation.

In another cell at the county jail was Maser's associate, Carl Studer, charged by federal agents with liquor law violation and held in default of bond. He will remain there unless bond is forthcoming, but Maser will be returned to Canton.

Before Maser is taken back to face the murder charge, however, he will be confronted with Steve Koscholk, the witness who has identified his photograph as that of a man who took him from Massillon to Canton when plans were being made to "punish" the young Canton publisher for interfering with the bootlegging business.

Investigators from Canton will also question him at the request of United States District Attorney A. E. Bernsteen who is conducting a federal investigation of alleged bootlegging activities at Canton on the theory they played a part in Mellett's murder.

TO UNVEIL OIL PAINTING OF STEENERSON

Crookston, Minn., Aug. 17.—(UP)—An oil painting of Halvor Steenerson, former representative in congress from the ninth district of Minnesota, will be unveiled tonight at a testimonial dinner in honor of Steenerson.

Postal workers through whose efforts the painting was purchased and citizens will unite in tribute to Steenerson at the dinner.

For 20 years, Steenerson served this district in congress, much of the time as chairman of the important committee on post roads.

FREIGHT RATES MAY BECOME REAL ISSUE

POLITICAL ANGLE INJECTED INTO CONTROVERSY ON FREIGHT RATES

CONCERNS RATES ON GRAIN AND GRAIN PRODUCTS FROM N. W. TO EAST

Minneapolis, Minn., Aug. 17. — (UP)—Reduction of railroad rates on grain and grain products from the northwest to the eastern territory threatened today to become a political issue in Minnesota.

C. A. Quist, chairman of the Minnesota democratic state central committee, made public a letter to Representative Walter H. Newton, republican, Minneapolis, charging that the interstate commerce commission was "packed against the west" and that "you and your crowd are responsible."

Quist referred to a telegram sent by Newton to the commission as a "political gesture." The telegram urged the commission to set an early date for the hearing on the proposal of the Minneapolis & St. Louis and Soo Line railroads to reduce the rate on grain and grain products six cents.

Subsequently the interstate commerce commission fixed September 13 as the date and Minneapolis as the place for holding the hearing.

The letter follows:

"Your lengthy telegram to the interstate commerce commission should be characterized as a political gesture. Why don't you make an appeal to President Coolidge who packed the commission against the west, as charged on the floor of the United States senate, and now proven by circumstances and events.

"The entire present freight structure, as applied to Minnesota, is indefensible; it is strangling the commercial life of the Twin Cites. Our warehouses are empty, jobbers and manufacturers' agents are moving to Chicago. Minnesota cannot market its products on a prohibitive freight rate.

"You and your crowd are responsible for permitting the president to pack the interstate commerce commission, the tariff commission and the federal trade commission.

"If we are to have railroad advocates sit on the interstate commerce commission, it would be much better for the public to have such well known men as Ralph Budd and C. T. Jaffray hold such appointment because they would scent their responsibility to the public.

FORD RELIABILITY PLANES ARRIVE AT INDIANAPOLIS

Indianapolis, Aug. 17.—(UP)—The Ford reliability planes arrived here shortly after 12:30 o'clock today from Moline, Ill.

Walter Beech, piloting a Travel-Air No. 2 plane, was the first to arrive. A few minutes later L. G. Meister, piloting a Buhlverille, alighted.

The planes left Moline at 10 o'clock this morning.

ENTRAPPED IN SEDAN AS FLAMES ROARED

LEAPED THROUGH WINDOWS OF CAR, SAVED THEIR BULL TERRIER

LOST ALL THEIR LUGGAGE, AUTOMOBILE REDUCED TO FRAZZLE

Two eastern young ladies narrowly escaped death last evening when they were entrapped in their sedan which caught fire about 12 miles from Brainerd on highway No. 18. The car burned to a frazzle in the space of a few minutes, the girls escaping by leaping through the windows of the automobile. They were unable to go through the door on account of luggage in the way.

The two ladies are Miss Dorothy Gow, New York City, and Miss Marjorie Smith, of Boston. The girls in making their own escape did not forget their pet bull terrier, "Bunkie." The dog was pulled through the window by the girls.

Shortly after 6 o'clock last evening the young ladies were en route for Brainerd on highway No. 18 near Nokay Lake when of a sudden the engine caught fire. So sudden was the outburst of flame that the entire body of the automobile was enveloped in flames. Displaying rare presence of mind, the girls instead of becoming frantic in attempting to escape took the easiest and quickest way of escape by leaping through the open windows of their car.

The girls secured a pickup ride to Brainerd where they notified both the city police department and sheriff's office of the accident. Deputies from the sheriff's department went to the scene of the accident where they found the car an almost total wreck.

The car was owned by the Cosmopolitan Magazine Publishers and was used by the girls in visiting the different summer camps and resorts where they are securing copy for the magazine. Miss Gow is one of the staff representatives of the camp department of the magazine.

All the baggage and suit cases containing dresses and other wearing apparel belonging to the two ladies were burned, and a pocket book containing several dollars in currency was also destroyed.

The automobile, it is understood, is covered by insurance.

SPANISH-AMERICAN WAR VETERANS MEET AT DES MOINES

Des Moines, Ia., Aug. 17.—(UP)—National encampment of the Veterans of the Spanish-American war will move into its third day here today with a monster parade containing more than 20,000 veterans of the Spanish war, national guards and regular army troops as the feature.

Report of the resolutions committee and the nomination of officers was the order of early business sessions.

Sixteen thousand veterans have arrived in Des Moines for the encampment, it was estimated today, and although the encampment officially opened Sunday the delegates were beginning their celebrations for the first time last night.

Favorable consideration is expected to be given a contemplated resolution which would permit the admission of veterans at large to membership in the organization thus admitting to the national commandery veterans who live in states where there is no state commandery.

DEATH SENTENCE OF DONALD RINGER ORDERED COMMUTED

Lincoln, Neb., Aug. 17.—(UP)—The plea of "extreme youthfulness" made by Donald Ringer, convicted murderer before the state pardons board yesterday, today resulted in commutation of his death sentence to life imprisonment.

He was found guilty several months ago of murdering Carl Moore, motor car salesman, and sentenced to die in the electric chair.

Several attempts to have the death sentence set aside in favor of a life imprisonment punishment have been made in the last few months. The climax came yesterday when after his father and sister had pleaded before the board the young man appeared and made a personal appeal for clemency—basing his plea on "youth."

CHECKING UP CRIME RECORD

THOMAS JOHNSON, "MAN OF MANY CRIMES," PUZZLES POLICE

Minneapolis, Minn., Aug. 17. — (UP)—The task of checking the criminal record of Thomas Johnson, "the man of many crimes," was simplified when Johnson turned the tables at a police "show up" and identified seven additional Minneapolis victims.

Johnson did not approve of the police plan to have holdup victims who recognized him identify him, but instead walked up and down the line of persons, stopping now and then to pick out a man and relate the details of a robbery. The victims confirmed the details, some of which had been forgotten.

As a result, the number of crimes charged to Johnson following his removal from Seattle was increased to 21, including a holdup in Aberdeen, S. D., July 9, when Mrs. Chas. Tatum was robbed of $300 and two diamond rings.

COUPLE KILLED WHEN COUPE HIT BY TRAIN

Waukesha, Wis., Aug. 17.—(UP)—An investigation was under way here today into the deaths of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Aldrich of Huntley, Ill., who were killed when the small coupe in which they were riding was struck by a train near here.

The automobile was tossed to one side of the track a mass of tangled wreckage. When train men reached the scene the two were dead. Identification was made by cards in Aldrich's pockets.

Correspondence found on the body indicated Aldrich was an employe of the Citizens' Wholesale Supply Co., of Columbus, Ohio.

LOUIS MASER OF CANTON CHARGED SLAYING MELLETT

CLAIMED HE KILLED NATIONALLY KNOWN PUBLISHER

ARREST IS FIRST MADE SINCE CRIME COMMITTED MONTH AGO

Canton, O., Aug. 17. — (UP) — Louis Maser, Canton underworld character, held by federal authorities in Cleveland, was charged with the murder of Don R. Mellett, publisher of the Canton Daily News, in a warrant sworn out here last night.

The arrest was the first since the crime was committed more than a month ago on a charge other than suspicion. Maser was taken yesterday with Carl Studer, an associate, on charges of conspiracy to violate the prohibition law. The murder warrant was sworn out later.

In a statement issued by Joseph Roach, Chicago criminal prosecutor, immediately after Justice of the Peace Bruce Correll issued the warrant, it was explained that Maser was arrested entirely on evidence gathered by Ora Slater, Cincinnati detective, and his assistant, George Armstrong.

Roach also said at least ten others are involved in the murder, among them several members of the police department.

Warrants for further arrests are expected. The first murder charge was based on an affidavit sworn out by Michael Glenn, one of Roach's assistants.

The first actual murder charge in the now-famous case was dramatic. All the principal investigators were assembled when the murder warrant was issued. Then Roach made his statement charging 10 others with complicity, charges that respected police officials played a part in the shooting from ambush of the young editor, unarmed and helpless, because he was waging a newspaper campaign against lawlessness and corruption. Maser first came under suspicion because he was one of the group whom Mellett's campaign was affecting.

Then testimony of Steve Koscholk, the informer, who said he had been hired with Patrick McDermott, for whom a nation-wide search is under way, to "beat up" Mellett but withdrew from the plot because he feared the consequences, involved Maser by identifying his automobile and photographs.

It was Maser's automobile, according to Koscholk, in which he and McDermott were driven from Massillon to Canton to see the layout of the Mellett home preparatory to execution of their proposed "job." He also said it was Maser who drove the automobile. Koscholk will be taken to Cleveland today to see Maser himself.

CLAIMED HE'S READY TO "SPILL EVERYTHING"

Cleveland, O., Aug. 17. — Louis Maser, Canton underworld habitue, charged with the murder of Don R. Mellett, is ready to "spill everything" to satisfy his appetite for narcotics, according to reports today from the county jail where he is held.

"Give me one pill and I'll spill everything," Maser pleaded following a night of confinement, it was learned from one of his jailers, a deputy sheriff.

County jail authorities, under order from federal officers who arrested Maser yesterday on a charge of conspiracy to violate the pohibition law before the murder warrant was sworn out, refused the prisoner drugs.

Maser is a known addict. This morning, accoording to authorities, he was in a frenzy, ready to do anything for relief from drug starvation.

In another cell at the county jail was Maser's associate, Carl Studer, charged by federal agents with liquor law violation and held in default of bond. He will remain there unless bond is forthcoming, but Maser will be returned to Canton.

Before Maser is taken back to face the murder charge, however, he will be confronted with Steve Koscholk, the witness who has identified his photograph as that of a man who took him from Massillon to Canton when plans were being made to "punish" the young Canton publisher for interfering with the bootlegging business.

Investigators from Canton will also question him at the request of United States District Attorney A. E. Bernsteen who is conducting a federal investigation of alleged bootlegging activities at Canton on the theory they played a part in Mellett's murder.

For 20 years, Steenerson served this district in congress, much of the time as chairman of the important committee on post roads.

FREIGHT RATES MAY BECOME REAL ISSUE

POLITICAL ANGLE INJECTED INTO CONTROVERSY ON FREIGHT RATES

CONCERNS RATES ON GRAIN AND GRAIN PRODUCTS FROM N. W. TO EAST

Minneapolis, Minn., Aug. 17. — (UP)—Reduction of railroad rates on grain and grain products from the northwest to the eastern territory threatened today to become a political issue in Minnesota.

C. A. Quist, chairman of the Minnesota democratic state central committee, made public a letter to Representative Walter H. Newton, republican, Minneapolis, charging that the interstate commerce commission was "packed against the west" and that "you and your crowd are responsible."

Quist referred to a telegram sent by Newton to the commission as a "political gesture." The telegram urged the commission to set an early date for the hearing on the proposal of the Minneapolis & St. Louis and Soo Line railroads to reduce the rate on grain and grain products six cents.

Subsequently the interstate commerce commission fixed September 13 as the date and Minneapolis as the place for holding the hearing.

The letter follows:

"Your lengthy telegram to the interstate commerce commission should be characterized as a political gesture. Why don't you make an appeal to President Coolidge who packed the commission against the west, as charged on the floor of the United States senate, and now proven by circumstances and events.

"The entire present freight structure, as applied to Minnesota, is indefensible; it is strangling the commercial life of the Twin Cites. Our warehouses are empty, jobbers and manufacturers' agents are moving to Chicago. Minnesota cannot market its products on a prohibitive freight rate.

"You and your crowd are responsible for permitting the president to pack the interstate commerce commission, the tariff commission and the federal trade commission.

"If we are to have railroad advocates sit on the interstate commerce commission, it would be much better for the public to have such well known men as Ralph Budd and C. T. Jaffray hold such appointment because they would scent their responsibility to the public.

FORD RELIABILITY PLANES ARRIVE AT INDIANAPOLIS

Indianapolis, Aug. 17.—(UP)—The Ford reliability planes arrived here shortly after 12:30 o'clock today from Moline, Ill.

Walter Beech, piloting a Travel-Air No. 2 plane, was the first to arrive. A few minutes later L. G. Meister, piloting a Buhlverille, alighted.

The planes left Moline at 10 o'clock this morning.

ENTRAPPED IN SEDAN AS FLAMES ROARED

LEAPED THROUGH WINDOWS OF CAR, SAVED THEIR BULL TERRIER

LOST ALL THEIR LUGGAGE, AUTOMOBILE REDUCED TO FRAZZLE

Two eastern young ladies narrowly escaped death last evening when they were entrapped in their sedan which caught fire about 12 miles from Brainerd on highway No. 18. The car burned to a frazzle in the space of a few minutes, the girls escaping by leaping through the windows of the automobile. They were unable to go through the door on account of luggage in the way.

The two ladies are Miss Dorothy Gow, New York City, and Miss Marjorie Smith, of Boston. The girls in making their own escape did not forget their pet bull terrier, "Bunkie." The dog was pulled through the window by the girls.

Shortly after 6 o'clock last evening the young ladies were en route for Brainerd on highway No. 18 near Nokay Lake when of a sudden the engine caught fire. So sudden was the outburst of flame that the entire body of the automobile was enveloped in flames. Displaying rare presence of mind, the girls instead of becoming frantic in attempting to escape took the easiest and quickest way of escape by leaping through the open windows of their car.

The girls secured a pickup ride to Brainerd where they notified both the city police department and sheriff's office of the accident. Deputies from the sheriff's department went to the scene of the accident where they found the car an almost total wreck.

The car was owned by the Cosmopolitan Magazine Publishers and was used by the girls in visiting the different summer camps and resorts where they are securing copy for the magazine. Miss Gow is one of the staff representatives of the camp department of the magazine.

All the baggage and suit cases containing dresses and other wearing apparel belonging to the two ladies were burned, and a pocket book containing several dollars in currency was also destroyed.

The automobile, it is understood, is covered by insurance.

SPANISH-AMERICAN WAR VETERANS MEET AT DES MOINES

Des Moines, Ia., Aug. 17.—(UP)—National encampment of the Veterans of the Spanish-American war will move into its third day here today with a monster parade containing more than 20,000 veterans of the Spanish war, national guards and regular army troops as the feature.

Report of the resolutions committee and the nomination of officers was the order of early business sessions.

Sixteen thousand veterans have arrived in Des Moines for the encampment, it was estimated today, and although the encampment officially opened Sunday the delegates were beginning their celebrations for the first time last night.

Favorable consideration is expected to be given a contemplated resolution which would permit the admission of veterans at large to membership in the organization thus admitting to the national commandery veterans who live in states where there is no state commandery.

DEATH SENTENCE OF DONALD RINGER ORDERED COMMUTED

Lincoln, Neb., Aug. 17.—(UP)—The plea of "extreme youthfulness" made by Donald Ringer, convicted murderer before the state pardons board yesterday, today resulted in commutation of his death sentence to life imprisonment.

He was found guilty several months ago of murdering Carl Moore, motor car salesman, and sentenced to die in the electric chair.

Several attempts to have the death sentence set aside in favor of a life imprisonment punishment have been made in the last few months. The climax came yesterday when after his father and sister had pleaded before the board the young man appeared and made a personal appeal for clemency—basing his plea on "youth."

Explaining It

Senator DuPont at a dinner in Washington said of a Florida failure: "Their explanation is about as satisfactory as the fortune teller gave.

"The fortune teller said to the young man:

"'Useless to pretend that you have a long life before you. This ace of clubs, you see, bumps you off early. At the age of thirty-nine you will die.'

"'And this small card here,' he said, 'means that you'll marry at the age of thirty-eight and have sixteen children.'

"'Sixteen children?' said the young man. 'But how can that be when I'm to die a year later—at thirty-nine, you know?'

"The fortune teller turned red.

"Then his face cleared and he smiled and said smoothly:

"'You'll marry a widow with fifteen litle ones.'"

Predicting Earthquakes

The time is not far distant when scientists will be able to predict earthquakes with the same accuracy that astronomers are now able to predict the coming of a comet. This is the opinion held by Dr. Thomas Jaggar, one of the greatest volcanologists in the world. He is in charge of the government observatory in the Hawaiian islands and has visited all the earthquake areas during the last quarter century. Doctor Jaggar is among those scientists who believe in studying the life processes of today rather than the fossils of the past. By observing the crust of the earth and by watching the eruptions and other movements, he thinks, it will be possible to forecast earthquake cycles with a reasonable degree of precision. —Pathfinder Magazine.

The Mission Bells are Calling You

Whittier's Poem on the Red River

"THE RED RIVER VOYAGEUR"

"The voyageur smiles as he listens
To the sound that grows apace,
Well he knows the vesper ringing
Of the Bells of St. Boniface.

"The Bells of the Roman mission
That call from their turrets twain
To the boatman on the river,
To the hunter on the plain.

"Even so in our mortal journey
The bitter north winds blow,
And thus upon life's Red River
Our hearts like oarsmen row.

"And when the Angel of Shadow
Shall stand on the wane and shore
And swear by Him that liveth
That time shall be no more.

"Then happy is he that heareth
The signal of his release,
The Bells of the Holy City,
The chimes of eternal peace."

Situated on opposite sides of the Red River, St. Boniface and Winnipeg have thus become immortalized in verse.

THE Cathedral in St. Boniface, built by Bishop Provencher prior to 1848; destroyed by fire in 1860, and later rebuilt.

The bells of St. Boniface have been immortalized by John Greenleaf Whittier, the great American poet, in his beautiful poem "The Red River Voyageur."

The history of Western Canada has left many interesting landmarks—Fort Garry Gate, Lower Fort Garry, Seven Oaks—and the quaint old-world villages.

Winnipeg offers gaieties too—sports, beach life and city night life.

Explaining It

Senator DuPont at a dinner in Washington said of a Florida failure: "Their explanation is about as satisfactory as the fortune teller gave.

"The fortune teller said to the young man:

"'Useless to pretend that you have a long life before you. This ace of clubs, you see, bumps you off early. At the age of thirty-nine you will die.'

"'And this small card here,' he said, 'means that you'll marry at the age of thirty-eight and have sixteen children.'

"'Sixteen children?' said the young man. 'But how can that be when I'm to die a year later—at thirty-nine, you know?'

"The fortune teller turned red.

"Then his face cleared and he smiled and said smoothly:

"'You'll marry a widow with fifteen little ones.'"

Predicting Earthquakes

The time is not far distant when scientists will be able to predict earthquakes with the same accuracy that astronomers are now able to predict the coming of a comet. This is the opinion held by Dr. Thomas Jaggar, one of the greatest volcanologists in the world. He is in charge of the government observatory in the Hawaiian islands and has visited all the earthquake areas during the last quarter century. Doctor Jaggar is among those scientists who believe in studying the life processes of today rather than the fossils of the past. By observing the crust of the earth and by watching the eruptions and other movements, he thinks, it will be possible to forecast earthquake cycles with a reasonable degree of precision. —Pathfinder Magazine.

The Mission Bells are Calling You

Whittier's Poem on the Red River

"THE RED RIVER VOYAGEUR"

"The voyageur smiles as he listens
To the sound that grows apace,
Well he knows the vesper ringing
Of the Bells of St. Boniface.

"The Bells of the Roman mission
That call from their turrets twain
To the boatman on the river,
To the hunter on the plain.

"Even so in our mortal journey
The bitter north winds blow,
And thus upon life's Red River
Our hearts like oarsmen row.

"And when the Angel of Shadow
Shall stand on the wane and shore
And swear by Him that liveth
That time shall be no more.

"Then happy is he that heareth
The signal of his release,
The Bells of the Holy City,
The chimes of eternal peace."

Situated on opposite sides of the Red River, St. Boniface and Winnipeg have thus become immortalized in verse.

THE Cathedral in St. Boniface, built by Bishop Provencher prior to 1848; destroyed by fire in 1860, and later rebuilt.

The bells of St. Boniface have been immortalized by John Greenleaf Whittier, the great American poet, in his beautiful poem "The Red River Voyageur."

The history of Western Canada has left many interesting landmarks—Fort Garry Gate, Lower Fort Garry, Seven Oaks—and the quaint old-world villages.

Winnipeg offers gaieties too—sports, beach life and city night life.

BLACK HAWK CLUB GIVES LAND FOR PARK

Two Acres Land Donated by the Club at Meeting at Home of Frank G. Hall

DR. HOORN HONORED

Club Also Gives $100 Liberty Bond to Local Boy Scouts Association

The Black Hawk club, one of the oldest social clubs of Brainerd last evening at a party at the home of Frank G. Hall, 209 North 4th street, the occasion being the farewell party in honor of Dr. K. H. Hoorn who leaves shortly for California, passed a resolution donating two acres owned by the club south of the Tourist Camp, to the Tourist Camp for the purpose of adding more space to the popular camp.

The club also voted to give to the Boy Scouts association the $100 Liberty bond, suggesting that the interest on the bond each year be used to buy a prize for competition among Boy Scouts to be known as the Black Hawk club medal.

Dr. Hoorn was allowed last evening to deliver his speech on "Pickles," which he had attempted to give every year for the past 20 years but has been stopped in his attempt. The speech was greatly enjoyed. Refreshments were served and everyone reported a royal time.

Among those present were: F. E. Stout, W. A. Spencer, Dr. K. H. Hoorn, C. W. Hoffman, Frank G. Hall, Louis Knudsen, D. E. Whitney, Judge Ezra R. Smith, Walter F. Wieland, C. W. Mahlum, John J. Cummins, James H. Alderman, Dick Johnson, Dr. R. A. Bejse, Clyde E. Parker.

BANDIT IS SENTENCED TO LONG JAIL TERM

MATTHEW McNEIL, ST. PAUL, STARTS SERVING 3 TO 25 YEARS

GUILTY OF PARTICIPATING IN NORTHWESTERN NATIONAL BANK ROBBERY

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 17.—(UP)—Matthew McNeil, 52, St. Paul, who recently pleaded guilty to particpaton n the $300,000 holdup of the Northwestern National Bank here in 1924, started serving a sentence of from three to twenty-five years at the state prison today.

McNeil was brought into court secretly late yesterday, sentenced within a short time and then immediately placed aboard a Milwaukee road train bound for the state prison at Waupun.

Every move of McNeil from the time he left the south side police station, where he has been kept, until he was aboard the train, was watched by a heavily armed guard. This heavy guard was maintained in anticipation of a report that Minneapolis gunmen had planned to effect his escape before he got to Waupun.

When McNeil was brought into court, officials revealed they had been trying to bail friends of the bandit into coming into the state in an effort to effcet his release.

Instead of having kept McNeil in the county jail he has been held at an outlying police station.

It was further revealed that a man who had been in the county jail had been asked by McNeil to act as a "go-between" the county jail and his Minneapolis friends.

According to Dist. Atty. Eugene Wengert it was learned that $2,000 had been "laid down the line" to insure that McNeil would be in an advantageous position to make a break when the right moment came.

The district attorney also declared it had been learned that in the event the plans to effect a jail break failed, an attempt was to be made to hold up the car in which McNeil was to be taken to the state prison.

It was learned the gang planned to make their headquarters at Racine while working out some plan to get McNeil away.

Every precaution was taken and it was not until five minutes before he was taken into court that McNeil knew he was to be sentenced.

By good behavior McNeil will be eligible to parole in about 10 years, officials estimated.

FEDERATION OF LABOR IN CONVENTION

PROPOSED EXTENSION OF AUTHORITY TO LOCAL POLICE APPROVED

VOTE ON PROPOSITION WAS RECORDED BY VOTE OF 106 TO 58

Hibbing, Minn., Aug. 17.—(UP)—The proposed extension of the authority granted to local police officers was approved today by the Minnesota Federation of Labor.

The action indicated that in opposing the establishment of a state constabulary, labor organizations will argue that the empowering of local police officers to make arrests in any part of the state will serve the same purpose.

The vote was 106 to 58.

Heated debate preceded the resolution's adoption. Opposition to the proposal was led by William Mahoney, of St. Paul; J. E. Lindstrom, of Minneapolis, and J. A. Peterson of Duluth, who argued that it was unnecessary to extend the powers of local police officers.

Frank Starkey, of St. Paul, and other active supporters of the interim committee's report favoring police power extension, declared it was the best way to block a state constabulary bill in the state legislature.

The delegates also voted opposition to the establishment of factories in state institutions by accepting the report of the interim committee. The committee said its reprot was based on testimony taken during consideration of the national prisons bill.

Investigation of conditions at state institutions was provided in a separate resolution which authorized the appointment of a committee for that purpose.

Kate O'Hara, of New York, who spoke as a representative of the United Garment Workers, enlivened the convention in declaring that the eighteenth amendment is an attempt to change the habits of a nation and that prohibition is a failure.

This statement was greeted by cheers from the delegates.

Prison factories were denounced by the New York woman who charged that prison guards "in this state's prison and in other states include sex perverts and degenerates."

Resolutions urging that labor take a more active part in politics were expected to be introduced in the convention floor late today and to evoke lively debate.

Rich Strike, After All

Way back in the fifties gold prospectors took a look at Big bend in the North Fork of the Feather river in California and decided the stream bed must be full of gold in the wide horseshoe watercourse that skirted a mountain. So they undertook—and finished—the herculean task of driving a tunnel through the base of the mountain, permitting the river to flow through the ground, leaving the stream bed bare. But there was no gold! Today gold has been struck in a new way at Big bend. The water that flows through the tunnel has been put to work producing electric power that has helped develop the great Sacramento valley and the San Francisco Bay region.

Getting Into a Scrape

The word "scrape," meaning a difficulty or some unfortunate predicament, has several synonyms, as "rub," a "squeeze," a "pinch," etc., all of which are younger than the term "scrape," and of slightly different interpretation.

"Getting into a scrape" came from Scotland, and the expression is as old as the ancient and honorable game of golf. In Scotland a rabbit's hole or burrow is called a "scrape." When a player's ball rolled into one of these holes it was manifestly impossible to play it, and the rules of the game recognized this fact by naming but a slight penalty for the player. He merely "got into a scrape."—Chicago Journal.

Transparent Steel

A sheet of steel so thin as to be as transparent as a pane of glass has been made by Dr. Karl Muller of the Physical Technical Institute of Berlin and the feat is expected to be of great commercial and scientific interest. As a test of the clearness of this sheet of metal, a photograph was made through it of a surface ruled with very fine lines and when the print was examined it showed the lines perfectly without the least distortion. The sheet is slightly flexible. The sheet is made by depositing the metal electrically upon a smooth surface and then removing it from the support.

Little Visits

Around the Rural Section

Written especially for the Dispatch by W. H. Triplett, travelling editor for this paper and The Farmer of St. Paul.

Monday morning was spent in calling on farmers whom we missed seeing Friday and Saturday and at that a few were gone today also. Mrs. Pearson reports that the Farmer's Pine Center Community club will be unable to put on an exhibit at the county fair as they had planned as most of the men will be busy threshing the next three weeks; however I believe most of them will find time enough so let us try to put out an exhibit and not let any other club get ahead of the Pine Center club. The writer will do all he can to help.

I found John Schely busy getting the tractor ready for fall plowing. Mr. Schely has done some wonderfully constructive work in the community since coming to the county 12 years ago. At one time he was interested in Red Poll cattle, but soon discovered that if one wanted to raise beef his time should be devoted altogether in that line; but as Crow Wing is more or less a dairy country, he turned from beef to dairying. He now has four registered head of Holstein cows besides milking 12 others of mixed breed. The cows are always insured of silage and alfalfa, having five acres of alfalfa this year and plans on seeding more the coming year. The farm consists of 160 acres, having 107 under cultivation and four acres of this into corn. Mr. Schely is the proud father of a new daughter who arrived Aug. 15. I enjoyed a very good dinner at the Schely home which the twin daughters had prepared.

I was disappointed when I came to Will Treichler's as he had gone to town; however farm work calls one away from home much of the time this time of year. Ernest Pearson was finishing up harvesting for Mr. Treichler this afternoon; Mr. Pearson reports that Mr. Treichler has two acres of very good barley. Mr. Treichler tells us they have lived in the community for the last 10 years, making dairying their major enterprise; at present six cows are milked and they are building up their herd by using the Association Guernsey sire, which was won as a prize for land clearing a few years ago.

Albert Treichler is another one of our prosperous farmers who has farmed 80 acres for the past 13 years and today was hauling a couple of his boarder cows to market; this leaves him eight cows in his dairy herd; Mr. Treichler too uses the Association sire. The orchard on the place is certainly bearing heavily this year; Mrs. Treichler says they exhibited fruit last year at the county fair and plan on doing so this year. Eight acres of alfalfa make up the major hay crop.

Vivian Treichler keeps house for her father, F. Treichler who has lived in the community for the last 40 years; he says he has seen some radical changes take place during these years. Elmer Williams is making his home with the Treichlers during the winter.

As the writer slid off the grade Sunday breaking the front spring on the Chevrolet and maybe injuring her internally, no little visits will be made today unless speedy work is done in fixing her up.

FASHIONS

By HEDDA HOYT

New York, Aug. 17.—(UP)—Red-hot Mammas in Pajamas are the ones who create a furore at Parisian Summer resorts this season. The scant one-piece bathing suit may be extremely high-tide and as striped as a zebra but it can't compare with the demure pajama for attraction.

Of course, the P. J. isn't worn in the water, although it is often of semi-water-proof silk. It is merely a beach garment to be worn before and after the dip. It is astonishing how chic the mannish pajama looks when worn by a smart boyishly-bobbed person. It must be worn over a tight-fitting bathing suit to avoid bulkiness.

The trousers may hang straight or they may be gathered into ankle bands. The jackets have mannish lapels—often of contrasting color, and cords wrap about the hips at a low waistline. Plain-colored crepe de chene that is semi-water-proof, forms many of the newer pajamas although flashy cretonnes still are noted. Plain colors, however, have the preference both because they are new and because they look most attractive under the cubist parasols which are almost invarjably carried with them.

The beach parasol this season is either flowered in huge floral designs or it is printed in eccentric cubist designs. Backgrounds are usually a neutral tan with the design carried out in numerous vivid colors and black. Parasols are not the huge affairs one would expect to see on the sands but are quite small, being designed to cover one head rather than two.

The rubber beach shoe is the one most generally worn since sandals with numerous straps and lacings went into the discard when mannish beach attire came in. Japanese wooden sandals with painted straps extending over the instep are worn when the Japanese beach kimona with vivid designs is the cover-all. These cotton kimonas with black backgrounds and vivid Japanese figures are more popular in America than abroad, it seems. Women who have purchased them inform us that the color used in dyeing these kimonas comes off on the body and if this is true, they will pass out this season.

Lloyd Hughes and Mary Astor in "High Steppers"

Sir Philip Gibbs' popular novel, "Heirs Apparent," comes to the screen of the Lyceum theatre tonight under the title "High Steppers." Mary Astor and Lloyd Hughes are featured.

The story excited much comment upon its appearance in book form because of its bold theory regarding the high stepping and generally jazz-mad living of modern smart set families. Gibbs contended that youthful fast living does not mean that the younger generation is lost. Before the final reckoning comes, Gibbs held, youth sobers into normalcy and saves not only himself, but the older generation as well.

Frank Starkey, of St. Paul, and other active supporters of the interim committee's report favoring police power extension, declared it was the best way to block a state constabulary bill in the state legislature.

The delegates also voted opposition to the establishment of factories in state institutions by accepting the report of the interim committee. The committee said its reprot was based on testimony taken during consideration of the national prisons bill.

Investigation of conditions at state institutions was provided in a separate resolution which authorized the appointment of a committee for that purpose.

Kate O'Hara, of New York, who spoke as a representative of the United Garment Workers, enlivened the convention in declaring that the eighteenth amendment is an attempt to change the habits of a nation and that prohibition is a failure.

This statement was greeted by cheers from the delegates.

Prison factories were denounced by the New York woman who charged that prison guards "in this state's prison and in other states include sex perverts and degenerates."

Resolutions urging that labor take a more active part in politics were expected to be introduced in the convention floor late today and to evoke lively debate.

Rich Strike, After All

Way back in the fifties gold prospectors took a look at Big bend in the North Fork of the Feather river in California and decided the stream bed must be full of gold in the wide horseshoe watercourse that skirted a mountain. So they undertook—and finished—the herculean task of driving a tunnel through the base of the mountain, permitting the river to flow through the ground, leaving the stream bed bare. But there was no gold! Today gold has been struck in a new way at Big bend. The water that flows through the tunnel has been put to work producing electric power that has helped develop the great Sacramento valley and the San Francisco Bay region.

Getting Into a Scrape

The word "scrape," meaning a difficulty or some unfortunate predicament, has several synonyms, as "rub," a "squeeze," a "pinch," etc., all of which are younger than the term "scrape," and of slightly different interpretation.

"Getting into a scrape" came from Scotland, and the expression is as old as the ancient and honorable game of golf. In Scotland a rabbit's hole or burrow is called a "scrape." When a player's ball rolled into one of these holes it was manifestly impossible to play it, and the rules of the game recognized this fact by naming but a slight penalty for the player. He merely "got into a scrape."—Chicago Journal.

Transparent Steel

A sheet of steel so thin as to be as transparent as a pane of glass has been made by Dr. Karl Muller of the Physical Technical institute of Berlin and the feat is expected to be of great commercial and scientific interest. As a test of the clearness of this sheet of metal, a photograph was made through it of a surface ruled with very fine lines and when the print was examined it showed the lines perfectly without the least distortion. The sheet is slightly flexible. The sheet is made by depositing the metal electrically upon a smooth surface and then removing it from the support.

Little Visits

Around the Rural Section

Written especially for the Dispatch by W. H. Triplett, travelling editor for this paper and The Farmer of St. Paul.

Monday morning was spent in calling on farmers whom we missed seeing Friday and Saturday and at that a few were gone today also. Mrs. Pearson reports that the Farmer's Pine Center Community club will be unable to put on an exhibit at the county fair as they had planned as most of the men will be busy threshing the next three weeks; however I believe most of them will find time enough so let us try to put out an exhibit and not let any other club get ahead of the Pine Center club. The writer will do all he can to help.

I found John Schely busy getting the tractor ready for fall plowing. Mr. Schely has done some wonderfully constructive work in the community since coming to the county 12 years ago. At one time he was interested in Red Poll cattle, but soon discovered that if one wanted to raise beef his time should be devoted altogether in that line; but as Crow Wing is more or less a dairy country, he turned from beef to dairying. He now has four registered head of Holstein cows besides milking 12 others of mixed breed. The cows are always insured of silage and alfalfa, having five acres of alfalfa this year and plans on seeding more the coming year. The farm consists of 160 acres, having 107 under cultivation and four acres of this into corn. Mr. Schely is the proud father of a new daughter who arrived Aug. 15. I enjoyed a very good dinner at the Schely home which the twin daughters had prepared.

I was disappointed when I came to Will Treichler's as he had gone to town; however farm work calls one away from home much of the time this time of year. Ernest Pearson was finishing up harvesting for Mr. Treichler this afternoon; Mr. Pearson reports that Mr. Treichler has two acres of very good barley. Mr. Treichler tells us they have lived in the community for the last 10 years, making dairying their major enterprise; at present six cows are milked and they are building up their herd by using the Association Guernsey sire, which was won as a prize for land clearing a few years ago.

Albert Treichler is another one of our prosperous farmers who has farmed 80 acres for the past 13 years and today was hauling a couple of his boarder cows to market; this leaves him eight cows in his dairy herd; Mr. Treichler too uses the Association sire. The orchard on the place is certainly bearing heavily this year; Mrs. Treichler says they exhibited fruit last year at the county fair and plan on doing so this year. Eight acres of alfalfa make up the major hay crop.

Vivian Treichler keeps house for her father, F. Treichler who has lived in the community for the last 40 years; he says he has seen some radical changes take place during these years. Elmer Williams is making his home with the Treichlers during the winter.

As the writer slid off the grade Sunday breaking the front spring on the Chevrolet and maybe injuring her internally, no little visits will be made today unless speedy work is done in fixing her up.

FASHIONS

By HEDDA HOYT

New York, Aug. 17.—(UP)—Red-hot Mammas in Pajamas are the ones who create a furore at Parisian Summer resorts this season. The scant one-piece bathing suit may be extremely high-tide and as striped as a zebra but it can't compare with the demure pajama for attraction.

Of course, the P. J. isn't worn in the water, although it is often of semi-water-proof silk. It is merely a beach garment to be worn before and after the dip. It is astonishing how chic the mannish pajama looks when worn by a smart boyishly-bobbed person. It must be worn over a tight-fitting bathing suit to avoid bulkiness.

The trousers may hang straight or they may be gathered into ankle bands. The jackets have mannish lapels—often of contrasting color, and cords wrap about the hips at a low waistline. Plain-colored crepe de chene that is semi-water-proof, forms many of the newer pajamas although flashy cretonnes still are noted. Plain colors, however, have the preference both because they are new and because they look most attractive under the cubist parasols which are almost invariably carried with them.

The beach parasol this season is either flowered in huge floral designs or it is printed in eccentric cubist designs. Backgrounds are usually a neutral tan with the design carried out in numerous vivid colors and black. Parasols are not the huge affairs one would expect to see on the sands but are quite small, being designed to cover one head rather than two.

The rubber beach shoe is the one most generally worn since sandals with numerous straps and lacings went into the discard when mannish beach attire came in. Japanese wooden sandals with painted straps extending over the instep are worn when the Japanese beach kimona with vivid designs is the cover-all. These cotton kimonas with black backgrounds and vivid Japanese figures are more popular in America than abroad, it seems. Women who have purchased them inform us that the color used in dyeing these kimonas comes off on the body and if this is true, they will pass out this season.

Electricity Aids Worker

Tools driven by electricity share their benefits alike with laborer and employer. The work he does is more valuable because he can do so much more of it. He can literally move mountains.

Lloyd Hughes and Mary Astor in "High Steppers"

Sir Philip Gibbs' popular novel, "Heirs Apparent," comes to the screen of the Lyceum theatre tonight under the title "High Steppers." Mary Astor and Lloyd Hughes are featured.

The story excited much comment upon its appearance in book form because of its bold theory regarding the high stepping and generally jazz-mad living of modern smart set families. Gibbs contended that youthful fast living does not mean that the younger generation is lost. Before the final reckoning comes, Gibbs held, youth sobers into normalcy and saves not only himself, but the older generation as well.

NORTHERN PACIFIC ADVERTISES BRAINERD

THE Northern Pacific railway company has recognized Brainerd with a full page in its July-August, 1926, time table and the favor, worth a lot of money in the publicity line is duly appreciated by every citizen of the town and vicinity.

A. B. Smith, popular passenger traffic manager of the railway company, was the man who shifted Brainerd into the limelight of publicity in the folder. Think of it! Mr. Smith has given Brainerd full-page publicity. The only other N. P. features stressed in single page are the "Distinguished Service" advertisement mentioning club breakfasts and club dinners on the railway; the low summer fares to Yellowstone Park, Rocky Mountains and the Pacific coast; the Admiral Oriental Line with its schedule of sailings; and on the last page, a review of the "North Coast Limited," "The Travel Triumph." And, by the way, the North Coast Limited has famously good meals prepared from the purest of wholesome foods, in kitchens spotlessly clean, and served with scrupulous care. Distinctive features are the big baked potato and the big baked apple. Extra comforts are provided on this train, the first of the Northern transcontinentals, without an extra fare.

The Brainerd page flashes up on page 30 and in two colors. It is titled, "Brainerd, Minnesota, Amid Pleasant Farms and Lakes." Three illustrations accompany the article, one being the Northern Pacific station, another a view of a flourishing field entitled, "Prosperous Farming Country," and the third being the familiar two-color N. P. trade mark bearing under it the words, "A Northern Pacific City Since 1870."

Script of the general story reads: "Brainerd is the county seat and largest city of Crow Wing county. It is surrounded by a fine farming country.

"Brainerd lies in the heart of the Ten Thousand Lakes region of Minnesota, on the Mississippi river, with 500 lakes only an hour's ride away.

"Productive farms, cheap electric power for manufacturing, rapid transportation facilities and the Cuyuna Iron Range nearby make it far more than a summer resort, however. Brainerd is an inviting city for homeseekers. Spend your next vacation on the shores of one of its lakes and see the city and the region yourself!

"Plan to visit Brainerd. Northern Pacific Railway, A. B. Smith, P. T. M."

It will be in line for the Chamber of Commerce, Rotarians and Lions and other civic bodies to thank the Northern Pacific for this valuable courtesy shown our community. The Brainerd Dispatch is glad to extend its appreciation of the honor shown our community.

We have just learned the distribution accorded these Northern Pacific time tables. A local railway man tells us that this folder is of an issue of 135,000 copies, that it will appear on the racks of every commercial station where N. P. tickets are sold. This means every station of the Northern Pacific as well as every other station of every other line in the United States selling tickets over the N. P. In addition it secures distribution in Oriental and European rail and steamship ticket offices.

When one realizes the magnitude of the publicity accorded one may well see that it was done because Brainerd has been an N. P. town since 1870.

ONE WAY TO CANCEL

AFTER years of preparedness a shot at Sarejevo precipitated a war that dragged into it nearly all the nations of the world. Unfortunately guns, powder, bullets, transportation and food have a way of eating into a person's pin money and as a result Europe is short of change in spite of the fact that a rich Uncle poured gold into the coffers in a steady stream.

Liberty Bonds were sold to the American people largely with the understanding that their proceeds would go to the allied countries to aid them in winning the war to end wars. Our government, acting as disbursing agent, promised to repay our advances with interest. It now appears that notwithstanding the fact that someone has cancelled more than half the loans thus made, our debtors are clamoring for full cancellation and in this appeal they are aided and abetted by certain interested individuals and organizations in this country who seem to be particularly interested in spending the other fellow's money in a plan to refinance these quarreling nations for another war.

It has been suggested that these altruistic persons who protest against demanding partial repayment surrender their Liberty Bonds to the Secretary of the Treasury with the request to cancel and charge them off to the French debt. This would set a good example, but it is doubtful if there will be any scramble in that direction.—Staples World.

BUSINESS CONDITIONS GOOD

BUSINESS conditions in Northern Pacific railway territory are reported good by Howard Elliot, chairman of the board of directors, who has recently returned from a tour of the properties. In fact it was the longest inspection tour he ever took over Northern Pacific lines.

With but few exceptions, he found business conditions excellent, and felt that present prospects indicate as good a year for the Northern Pacific as in 1925.

This announcement is of interest to Brainerd where the company has its large repair shops. Increased traffic means added wear and tear to equipment and continues fairly steady employment at our shops.

THE Shriners and the Knights of Columbus are indulging in attacks upon each other over the Mexican situation. Naturally the K. C. officials protest against what Mexico is trying to do to the Catholics, even if they are unwise in wanting this government to actively interfere—but that is hardly sufficient reason for the Shriners to get on the war path. Both are excellent organizations, and strife between them is a trouble breeder, and if continued will have far reaching consequences, when intolerance will be riding a high horse.—St. Cloud Daily Journal-Press.

THE Northern Pacific has replaced the Little Falls and Morris trains and the Little Falls and Jamestown trains with gas electric cars. "Now why not," says the Aitkin Independent Age, "put on an Aitkin and Cuyuna Range motor car direct to Minneapolis instead of handing the traffic to the busses?"

"Don Juan," screen play by Bess Meredyth, starring John Barrymore, is a Warner Bros. picturization of this novel.

SYNOPSIS

Don Juan's disillusioned father warns him: "Destroy women or they will destroy you. Take their love scornfully—and forget!" This advice has made Don Juan the greatest lover of all time. But his gay career of heart-wrecking is suddenly checked in Rome by the disarming innocence of beauteous Adriana Varanese. Juan loves her madly, changing the whole philosophy of his life. The affair arouses the enmity of the infamous Borgias, for Lucretia Borgia loves Juan, and her cousin, Donati, covets Adriana.

Ah, the old times would return, and all would be well!

Another step, another—and then Juan was looking the lovely, appealing lady straight in the face—and passing on. Just striding past her, without even another glance!

She looked after him, bewildered. Pedrillo would have laughed at that look of utter amazement, had he not been so thoroughly disgusted with his master in that moment.

What a way to act! With life showering its most gorgeous gifts upon a man! Most heartily Pedrillo wished that, instead of helping his master in the fight with Donato and his hirelings, he had turned and run Adriana through with his own sword.

It was on that second day that Juan's patience was rewarded. For he caught sight of Adriana for an instant, as she was entering the very church on whose steps Donati had first seen her.

There was a garden beside the church, sheltered from the street by a low wall. As the heavy doors of the church swung to behind Adriana, Juan, rousing himself from the trance of adoration into which he had fallen, hurried across the street and into the garden.

Through a side door he could see into the church; opposite that side door was an image of St. Anthony, the dull blues and reds of the saint's robes glowing faintly in the lights of the candles that burned before the image.

On the stone floor knelt Adriana, with head devoutly bent.

For an instant Juan knelt too, there in the soft Italian sunlight, then rose, to stare with hungry eyes at the girlish figure in the trailing white gown.

When at last she left the church he watched her as she went. Again, on the next day, and the days after that, he hurried to the church and watched for her to come, and then for her to go.

And Pedrillo, realizing that his master had completely lost his heart, swore that he had lost his head as well.

It was the day following that new determination seemed to take hold of Juan. As Adriana entered the church he stood watching her adoringly—at sight of his master's face Pedrillo stared in blank unbelief. Then he shrugged his shoulders skeptically. Impossible that Don Juan, the greatest lover in all Europe, should fall so hopelessly in love!

Eagerly he hurried across the street and up the steps, and stood for an instant looking into the church, watching Adriana as she knelt in prayer.

Pedrillo followed him and would have gone with him into the church, but Juan motioned to him not to. Pedrillo stopped short, hurt and indignant. Never before had he been treated like this! Had he not always been the greatest possible help to his master? Had he not been of inestimable aid in many a delicate situation? How many times had he taken the blame that should have fallen on Don Juan in a compromising moment, just as he had done it on the balcony outside Lucretia Borgia's rooms wh[illegible] was found making love to the pretty servant?

He sulked in the street while Juan passed through the little door in the wall surrounding the garden beside the church.

Juan closed the door behind him, and it was as if the peace of the church surrounded him the moment he had done so. There was quiet in the small garden, quiet that even the violence of the Borgias' rule could not touch. There were flowers growing close to the wall; there was a little stone fountain, in whose waters cooing pigeons splashed; there was a little shrine with a statue of the Virgin, whose dull blue robes were like a bit of the blue Italian sky.

Seeing that statue, Juan murmured a prayer. The Virgin had come between him and an intention the thought of which sickened him as it rose in his memory. Perhaps the Virgin would help him now, when he came to her with only purity and love in his heart.

Fearful, eager, wrung by the force of his ardor, he stood waiting, and at last the heavy leather door of the church swung outward. Juan stepped behind a tall flowering shrub whose yellow flowers fell softly on his shoulders. Hardly breathing, he stood there, waiting as Adriana came out of the shadowy church and down the garden path.

At last, after days of waiting, she was coming! What would he do, what could he say to her?

She walked slowly, pausing to pick a flower and to watch the pigeons. As for Adriana, she had known the bitterest despair when, regaining consciousness after fainting in Juan's arms, she realized what had happened. He had remained hidden until she was beside his hiding place; then he stepped forward humbly.

And now here he was, facing her, speaking to her.

She had adored Juan, had in her mind endowed him with all the virtues that any man could have. He was brave and strong and good, she had told herself, and kind, and gentle.

And then he had shattered her idol to bits, had before her eyes become as loathsome as any slavering beast eyeing its prey. He had made her doubt all that was holy, and good, had forced her to lose her faith in mankind.

Daily she had prayed to be made to forget him. Yet even in her prayers there was the vivid memory of him, the feeling of his arms about her, of his lips pressed to hers. She told herself angrily that she would give life itself to thrust him forever out of her mind, and knew in her heart that, despite the insult he had offered her, those memories were the most precious possession that she had.

Not understanding herself, she wept. And even as she wept, she wondered if she would ever see him again.

Her question was answered when, one day, as she was entering the church, she saw him in the street. Again the next day, and again the next, she saw him, waiting in the little garden. She told herself that she must avoid such encounters; she knew that he came because he wanted to see her, that, resenting his actions, she ought to give him no opportunity to speak to her.

And yet—when she longed so to speak to him again—embarrassed, humiliated when she recalled his treatment of her, she could not bring herself to make a change in her plans and going to church elsewhere. Each day she told herself that she would change the next day, and each day she postponed changing.

"I do not expect you to forgive me," he said, and his voice sounded strange in his own ears. "Just let me look at you, I beg. For three days, at this same hour, I have waited, and I would have gone on waiting through all eternity had it meant that I might have had a glimpse of you!"

THE Shriners and the Knights of Columbus are indulging in attacks upon each other over the Mexican situation. Naturally the K. C. officials protest against what Mexico is trying to do to the Catholics, even if they are unwise in wanting this government to actively interfere—but that is hardly sufficient reason for the Shriners to get on the war path. Both are excellent organizations, and strife between them is a trouble breeder, and if continued will have far reaching consequences, when intolerance will be riding a high horse.—St. Cloud Daily Journal-Press.

"Don Juan," screen play by Bess Meredyth, starring John Barrymore, is a Warner Bros. picturization of this novel.

SYNOPSIS

Don Juan's disillusioned father warns him: "Destroy women or they will destroy you. Take their love scornfully—and forget!" This advice has made Don Juan the greatest lover of all time. But his gay career of heart-wrecking is suddenly checked in Rome by the disarming innocence of beauteous Adriana Varanese. Juan loves her madly, changing the whole philosophy of his life. The affair arouses the enmity of the infamous Borgias, for Lucretia Borgia loves Juan, and her cousin, Donati, covets Adriana.

Ah, the old times would return, and all would be well!

Another step, another—and then Juan was looking the lovely, appealing lady straight in the face—and passing on. Just striding past her, without even another glance!

She looked after him, bewildered. Pedrillo would have laughed at that look of utter amazement, had he not been so thoroughly disgusted with his master in that moment.

What a way to act! With life showering its most gorgeous gifts upon a man! Most heartily Pedrillo wished that, instead of helping his master in the fight with Donato and his hirelings, he had turned and run Adriana through with his own sword.

It was on that second day that Juan's patience was rewarded. For he caught sight of Adriana for an instant, as she was entering the very church on whose steps Donati had first seen her.

And now here he was, facing her, speaking to her.

There was a garden beside the church, sheltered from the street by a low wall. As the heavy doors of the church swung to behind Adriana, Juan, rousing himself from the trance of adoration into which he had fallen, hurried across the street and into the garden.

Through a side door he could see into the church; opposite that side door was an image of St. Anthony, the dull blues and reds of the saint's robes glowing faintly in the lights of the candles that burned before the image.

On the stone floor knelt Adriana, with head devoutly bent.

For an instant Juan knelt too, there in the soft Italian sunlight, then rose, to stare with hungry eyes at the girlish figure in the trailing white gown.

When at last she left the church he watched her as she went. Again, on the next day, and the days after that, he hurried to the church and watched for her to come, and then for her to go.

And Pedrillo, realizing that his master had completely lost his heart, swore that he had lost his head as well.

It was the day following that new determination seemed to take hold of Juan. As Adriana entered the church he stood watching her adoringly—at sight of his master's face Pedrillo stared in blank unbelief. Then he shrugged his shoulders skeptically. Impossible that Don Juan, the greatest lover in all Europe, should fall so hopelessly in love!

Eagerly he hurried across the street and up the steps, and stood for an instant looking into the church, watching Adriana as she knelt in prayer.

Pedrillo followed him and would have gone with him into the church, but Juan motioned to him not to. Pedrillo stopped short, hurt and indignant. Never before had he been treated like this! Had he not always been the greatest possible help to his master? Had he not been of inestimable aid in many a delicate situation? How many times had he taken the blame that should have fallen on Don Juan in a compromising moment, just as he had done it on the balcony outside Lucretia Borgia's rooms wh[illegible] was found making love to the pretty servant?

He sulked in the street while Juan passed through the little door in the wall surrounding the garden beside the church.

Juan closed the door behind him, and it was as if the peace of the church surrounded him the moment he had done so. There was quiet in the small garden, quiet that even the violence of the Borgias' rule could not touch. There were flowers growing close to the wall; there was a little stone fountain, in whose waters cooing pigeons splashed; there was a little shrine with a statue of the Virgin, whose dull blue robes were like a bit of the blue Italian sky.

Seeing that statue, Juan murmured a prayer. The Virgin had come between him and an intention the thought of which sickened him as it rose in his memory. Perhaps the Virgin would help him now, when he came to her with only purity and love in his heart.

Fearful, eager, wrung by the force of his ardor, he stood waiting, and at last the heavy leather door of the church swung outward. Juan stopped behind a tall flowering shrub whose yellow flowers fell softly on his shoulders. Hardly breathing, he stood there, waiting as Adriana came out of the shadowy church and down the garden path.

At last, after days of waiting, she was coming! What would he do, what could he say to her?

She walked slowly, pausing to pick a flower and to watch the pigeons. As for Adriana, she had known the bitterest despair when, regaining consciousness after fainting in Juan's arms, she realized what had happened. He had remained hidden until she was beside his hiding place; then he stepped forward humbly.

She had adored Juan, had in her mind endowed him with all the virtues that any man could have. He was brave and strong and good, she had told herself, and kind, and gentle.

And then he had shattered her idol to bits, had before her eyes become as loathsome as any slavering beast eyeing its prey. He had made her doubt all that was holy, and good, had forced her to lose her faith in mankind.

Daily she had prayed to be made to forget him. Yet even in her prayers there was the vivid memory of him, the feeling of his arms about her, of his lips pressed to hers. She told herself angrily that she would give life itself to thrust him forever out of her mind, and knew in her heart that, despite the insult he had offered her, those memories were the most precious possession that she had.

Not understanding herself, she wept. And even as she wept, she wondered if she would ever see him again.

Her question was answered when, one day, as she was entering the church, she saw him in the street. Again the next day, and again the next, she saw him, waiting in the little garden. She told herself that she must avoid such encounters; she knew that he came because he wanted to see her, that, resenting his actions, she ought to give him no opportunity to speak to her.

And yet—when she longed so to speak to him again—embarrassed, humiliated when she recalled his treatment of her, she could not bring herself to make a change in her plans and going to church elsewhere. Each day she told herself that she would change the next day, and each day she postponed changing.

"I do not expect you to forgive me," he said, and his voice sounded strange in his own ears. "Just let me look at you, I beg. For three days, at this same hour, I have waited, and I would have gone on waiting through all eternity had it meant that I might have had a glimpse of you!"

STORM STOPS CHANNEL SWIMMER

LILLIAN CANNON GIVES UP TRY AFTER 2½ HOURS

BALTIMORE GIRL NOT DISHEARTENED, WILL MAKE ANOTHER ATTEMPT

WAS 4 MILES OFF THE FRENCH SHORE WHEN FURIOUS STORM BROKE

By MINOTT SAUNDERS
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Cape Gris Nez, France, Aug. 17.—Battered by a terrific storm, Miss Lillian Cannon of Baltimore was forced to abandon an attempt to swim the English Channel early today after she had been in the water two and a half hours, fighting her way toward the English shores. Starting at 12:55 A. M. Miss Cannon was forced to give up the effort at 3:25 A. M.

Cape Gris Nez, France, Aug. 17.—Lillian Cannon will make another attempt to swim the channel this week despite her experience early today when a heavy electrical storm broke out of the darkness above the channel and compelled her to abandon a promising effort after two and one-half hours in the water.

Lillian came back here to sleep after a plucky swim under the worst conditions any channel swimmer has encountered during recent seasons. She stepped into the water at 12:55 A. M. and had reached an excellent position four miles off shore at the end of the second hour in the water when the storm broke with amazing suddenness. Several times the Baltimore girl was lost to sight in the darkness. The sky was streaked with lightning and thunder rolled ominously overhead. The experts accompanying Lillian advised her to quit and reluctantly did she do so at 3:25 A. M.

Bitterly disappointed, the American girl still voiced her determination to seek again to conquer the channel after the unsuccessful conclusion of her brave attempt.

"I am ready to try again this season," she said.

The American girl had made good progress at the get-away and by 2:15 was three miles off shore. There she found heavy seas running.

Then the storm broke, old seamen here describing it as the most violent electrical storm in years. Strong winds swept over the darkened waters and threw up great white capped waves which raced out of the night.

Torrential rain fell, accompanied by thunder and lightning, and stinging hail came on the windy gusts. The wind blew the escort tug from its course, sweeping it rapidly toward Calais. It was impossible to keep near the swimmer.

Miss Cannon still fought on through the waves and storm.

The captain of the tug at first declared that he was afraid to continue and then that it was impossible to continue. All on the craft urged Miss Cannon to come aboard. It was not until after she had struggled in the stormy waters for more than an hour after the storm broke that she finally agreed to give up. She had covered three and a half miles.

So intense was the storm that practically all aboard the tug were forced below decks, many of them seasick.

The start had been made in calm sea, although a slight rain was falling. The water was unusually warm, and conditions were considered most favorable.

Miss Cannon wore a pair of swimming trunks and a silk slip supported by shoulder straps. Heavy goggles protected her eyes and her body was greased with lanoline and vaseline. A small American flag was fastened to her side.

For the first part of her swim, the girl was well ahead of schedule.

Bad weather was soon reported from England, however, and then the storm came. It came with intense force, and was felt in many parts of England and the continent. Ashore wires were blown down and communications interrupted in many places.

Watching the Scoreboard

Yesterday's Hero—Hack Wilson, Cub outfielder, who worked feverishly but futilely to put the Cubs ahead of the Cardinals by whacking out a pair of home runs. St. Louis won 5 to 4 when Bottomley's single in the ninth brought Reinhart home.

The Boston Red Sox split a double-header with the St. Louis Browns. Sisler's athletes taking the first 6 to 1 and the Sox the second 7 to 1.

The Chicago White Sox and the Detroit Tigers battled through 10 scoreless innings, the game being called to allow both squads to catch trains for the east. Together with the Sunday game in which the game was called in the fifth, the team had reeled off 15 scoreless innings. Ted Lyons and Sam Gibson allowed but three hits each.

The grounds at Philadelphia were wet and Cleveland couldn't play the Athletics. Rain prevented Pittsburgh's meeting the Boston Braves. No other games were scheduled.

Scoring the winning run in the ninth inning after the Indians had tied the count in their half of the inning the Brewers won over the Tribesmen 11 to 10 and made it three straight victories in the present series.

No other games were scheduled in the association so the victory enabled the Brewers to gain on the leading Colonels.

The series between the second half champs and the Y. M. C. A., first half winners, will start as soon as the second half is decided.

Watching the Scoreboard

Yesterday's Hero—Hack Wilson, Cub outfielder, who worked feverishly but futilely to put the Cubs ahead of the Cardinals by whacking out a pair of home runs. St. Louis won 5 to 4 when Bottomley's single in the ninth brought Reinhart home.

The Boston Red Sox split a double-header with the St. Louis Browns. Sisler's athletes taking the first 6 to 1 and the Sox the second 7 to 1.

The Chicago White Sox and the Detroit Tigers battled through 10 scoreless innings, the game being called to allow both squads to catch trains for the east. Together with the Sunday game in which the game was called in the fifth, the team had reeled off 15 scoreless innings. Ted Lyons and Sam Gibson allowed but three hits each.

The grounds at Philadelphia were wet and Cleveland couldn't play the Athletics. Rain prevented Pittsburgh's meeting the Boston Braves. No other games were scheduled.

Scoring the winning run in the ninth inning after the Indians had tied the count in their half of the inning the Brewers won over the Tribesmen 11 to 10 and made it three straight victories in the present series.

No other games were scheduled in the association so the victory enabled the Brewers to gain on the leading Colonels.

Forest Hills, N. Y., Aug. 17.—(UP)—Lacking the enlivening presence of Miss Helen Wills, national champion, the women's national tennis championship went into its second day today with a record of unexciting first round play behind it and a prospect of wet courts and may be raining skies ahead.

TEX RICKARD MAY ABANDON THE FIGHT

IT'S TIME FOR BOXING BODY, ETC. TO GET TOGETHER

IF COMMISSION AND LICENSE COMMITTEE CAN'T AGREE, IT'S ALL OVER

NEW YORK PROMOTER HAS NO IDEA OF GOING TO COURTS

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

New York, Aug. 17.—Tex Rickard will not go to court to force the New York license committee to grant a license to Jack Dempsey so that he can meet Gene Tunney in the Yankee stadium on September 16.

"If the boxing commission and the license committee can't get together I will call off the fight altogether," Rickard said today. "I haven't the time or the inclination to go to court about it and it's too late to take the fight some other place."

If there is any court action resulting from the disagreement between the two bodies over Dempsey's application for a license, it may be taken by the boxing commission.

The license committee, according to the opinion of Atty. Gen. Ottinger, has no legal right to refuse Dempsey a license after he had been declared to be in good standing by the commission.

Col. John E. Phelan, chairman of the license committee, which ruled last night that Dempsey could get a license only when he agreed to accept the challenge of Harry Wills, seemed unconcerned over the opinion of the attorney gneral made public while the committee was meeting.

"That's just the opinion of one individual to another," Phelan said. D. Walker Wear, Phelan's associate on the license committee, said the attorney general had been dragged into the case in an effort to railroad the Dempsey-Tunney match.

The suggestion that its action gave Dempsey a case for a mandamus suit or civil action for damages, gave the license commissioners a laugh.

"How can we be sued for making Dempsey observe the law?" they asked.

George E. Brower, member of the boxing commission, who asked the attorney general to define the legal powers of the license committee, intimated today that the commission might take legal steps to force Phelan and Wear to issue a license to Dempsey.

It is not likely that Dempsey will enter suit against the license committee as he has enough trouble on his hands now. His attorneys were in conference today with Rickard, but it was understood they were discussing the $33,333 suit filed against the champion by Jack Kearns, his former mnager, seeking a one-third share of Dempsey's earnings under his contract.

The boxing commission meets again today and it is possible that Brower and William Muldoon may vote to remove the challenge of Wills from the records and vote that Tunney is the official challenger. That would remove the objection the license committee holds to granting a license to Dempsey.

New York, Aug. 17.—Tex Rickard, promoter, announced this afternoon that he would go to court to compel the license committee to permit the scheduled world championship heavyweight fight between Jack Dempsey and Gene Tunney, scheduled for the Yankee stadium here September 16.

Rickard confered with his lawyer, Arthur F. Driscoll, after a meeting of the boxing board today at which the board put the matter of the license committee's refusal to license Dempsey up to Rickard.

Rickard announced suit would be in the form of a mandamus to compel the license committee to give Dempsey his papers. Driscoll began at once drawing up the papers for presentation to court.

Rickard announced that Jack Dempsey, from his training camp had sent word that he was bringing a similar suit. Rickard's suit will be filed in the name of the Tex Rickard Sporting club, a part of the Madison Square Garden corporation.

TO TAKE BUMPS OUT OF INTERSECTION

6th and Laurel Streets to Have High Crosswalks Removed

WILL COST ABOUT $1,200

Repairing of Intersection at Willow and South 6th to Cost $500

Working on their general road improvement program to bring about better intersections in Brainerd with the event of the completion of the pavement on State Highway No. 27 which is scheduled to be completed the early part of October, the city council last evening at their regular session authorized the repairing and the placing of new pavement at intersections at the corner of Sixth and Laurel streets and on Willow and South 6th streets.

The cost of the repairing of the intersection at the corner of Sixth and Laurel streets according to City Engineer Campbell's estimation is placed at $1,200 while the cost of repairing the intersection at Willow and South Sixth streets is placed at $500.

City Engineer Campbell last evening submitted plans and specifications of the improvements to be made at the intersections. The one at the corner of Sixth and Laurel streets is to have all the bumps taken off and the corner put in better shape for the cars making the turns.

Alderman Martin Anderson Votes Against 6th and Laurel

Alderman Martin Anderson was the only one to vote against the reparing of the intersection at the corner of Sixth and Laurel streets but was the mover of the resolution to repair the intersection at the corner of Willow and South Sixth streets.

Claiming that the repairing of the intersection at the corner of Sixth and Laurel streets was not a necessity at this time and that the $1,200 could be put to a better use, Alderman Martin Anderson advocated putting off the repairing of the intersection, at this time.

"We need a storm sewer on 6th street to keep water out of the basements. We're going to wake up some time and find a lot of damage suits on our hands" said Alderman Martin Anderson, "$1200 is $1200. Goodness knows, we've been taxed heavy enough anyway."

"Don't you think it a necessity to fix up the intersection?" asked President W. J. Lyonais.

"No," replied Alderman Anderson.

"Do you think the band is a necessity?" asked President Lyonais.

"It's up to the people," replied Ald. Anderson.

"Don't cross the bridge till you come to it. Why make this expenditure now when the taxes are high," said Alderman Anderson.

Ald. Lewis: "The people in general feel that the corner ought to be levelled up."

On motion of Aldermen Quanstrom and Elvig, the resolution was adopted that the intersection at Sixth and Laurel streets be taken care of according to the plans of the city engineer. Alderman Martin Anderson was the only one to vote no.

On motion of Aldermen Martin Anderson and Holmstrom, a resolution was passed instructing the city engineer to take care of the intersection at Willow and 6th streets. The cost will amount to approximately $500.

The Nelson and Williams garage at 25 A street was granted a license to install a curb pump. A. J. Mraz was given a license to install a filling station at South 6th and Tamarack streets.

Repairing Old Fire Truck

The matter of repairing the old fire truck which the White Truck Co., of Minneapolis estimated would amount to approximately $1,000 was referred to the Fire, Light and Water committee.

A check was ordered issued to the Brainerd Municipal band for the year as the band has lived up to its contract.

The police department was given authority to purchase gas for one car to be used for duty only and to turn in the bill to the city council.

The matter of water settling on Oak street between 4th and 5th streets was left in the hands of the city engineer to repair.

The city engineer was further instructed to take care of the street signs at Gregory park.

Settlement of Tifft Case

The settlement of the Tifft case was left in the hands of the Finance Committee and the City Attorney.

Ald. Martin Anderson brought up the matter of improving the general condition of the rooms in the city hall and on motion, the City Property committee were instructed to inspect the rooms and make a report to the next meeting as to the repairs needed.

The Fire, Water and Light committee were given authority to instruct the City Water and Light Board to install arc lights at the corners of 5th and Quince, Ivy and 10th, and Laurel and 18th streets.

Rent for the Commercial College was placed at $25 a month for June, July, and August and $50 a month for the remaining nine months.

Excess Tonnage of Trucks

No action was taken on the matter of trucks carrying excess tonnage on the streets of Brainerd. City Attorney Fullerton announced that an ordinance would be necessary if action was to be taken on this matter.

It was felt that the loads carried by trucks in the city did not affect the condition of the streets any.

George Stein was granted 10 feet of parking space in front of the Ransford hotel.

BRAINERD MEN LOSE LICENSES

BOTH TAKE APPEAL FROM DECISION OF MUNICIPAL JUDGE RANDALL

Friday the thirteenth may be lucky for some people, but not for Clyde and William Stowell, of Brainerd, for Clyde and William were fined $100 and costs and had their licenses revoked when after a hearing before Judge P. S. Randall of Little Falls yesterday they were found guilty of driving while intoxicated.

The two men were first arrested August 4, on complaint of residents and arraigned before Judge Randall the next day, but they pleaded not guilty and the trial was set for the 15th—Friday the 13th.

Numerous residents, called as witnesses, testified that the men were drunk and driving recklessly and numerous other residents testified just as positively that the men were not drunk. Austin Grimes, attorney for the defense, took part in some interesting scenes when he attempted to obtain a definition of drunkenness, but, although few of the witnesses could give a clear definition, Judge Randall decided that there was sufficient evidence to find the men guilty.

Chief of Police Karnowski testified that one of the men offered him $10 to let him go free. "While we were walking to the jail," said the chief, one of the men turned to me and said, "I'll give you ten dollars if you'll let me go." I asked him to repeat what he had just said and he changed his tune to 'I'll give you ten dollars for bail.'"

Each of the men were tried and sentenced separately, but both received the same sentence: $100 fine and costs or 90 days in jail and the forfeit of their licenses for a period of three months. Upon serving notice of appeal, the bonds for each of the men were set at $150.—Little Falls Daily Transcript.

CHICAGO-TWIN CITY AIR MAIL SERVICE RESUMED

St. Paul, Aug. 17.—(UP)—Air mail service between Chicago and the Twin Cities was resumed on its former schedule today.

Charles Dickinson, of Chicago, wealthy patron of aviation, who cancelled his government contract to carry the mails, has yielded to the insistence of Twin City business men and postal authorities and will seek readjustment of the schedule.

Five-day service with Saturdays and Sundays eliminated, no stop at Milwaukee and possible passenger carrying development in conjunction with the mail are Dickinson's indicated plans.

Dickinson has not withdrawn his cancellation, which is effective in 45 days, but gave assurance that he would do all possible to continue service.

Since the air mail was started this summer, it has been operated at a loss to Dickenson.

CAPTAIN FAWCETT RECEIVES HONORS

Breezy Point Lodge Owner, National Publisher and Sportsman Entertained at Seattle

SEATTLE P.-I. GIVES STORY

Popular Humorist Made Ornery Member of Ethereal Order of Bats at Seattle

The Seattle Post-Intelligencer carries this story on Captain William H. Fawcett, owner of Breezy Point Lodge, nationally known publisher and writer, and sportsman, in its issue of Saturday, Aug. 14:

"W. H. Fawcett, known the world over as Captain Billy of "Whiz Bang" fame, and endeared to soldiers and sailors for his snappy jokes, was the featured guest last Thursday night at the regular weekly meeting of the Keep Joy Radiating Order of Bats when they broadcast their meeting over KJR.

"Captain Billy was given a ride on the Royal Bat and was initiated into the organization with all the honors that come to "ornery members" of this ethereal group of funmakers.

"The Ellenburg Rodeo Quartet, four young cowgirls, offered several harmony numbers that were well above the average and that called for a host of telephone calls.

"A trio of gobs from the U. S. S. New Mexico, featured at the Egyptian theatre this week, sang several pleasing songs.

"Walton McKinney, tenor, assisted by Sybil Galavante, W. C. (Bud) Weiser, accompanied by Mrs. Clyde Pheasant, and Dan Phillips and Madeline Pless gave entertaining numbers during the evening while Frances McClellan and Sybil Galavante offered popular piano numbers."

Elks and Eagles lodges of Seattle are to follow with special entertainments for the Captain, made guest of honor for successive occasions.

The Free Lance club composed of literary men and women, made him guest of honor last week at a large banquet, and the Captain gave one of the best after dinner talks heard for some time.

The Captain also was the guest of the Seattle Gun club at a special shoot at Fort Lawton. He scored first in the handicap shooting, and made a good mark in the regular shoot.

Before returning he also visited Vancouver and made a special trip to Prince Edward Island to see further steps in the fox farming industry as carried on there. It was here that the first known attempt at domesticating the silver fox was made by Charles Dalton in 1887. Captain Fawcett is president of Breezy Point Silver Foxes, Inc., breeders of Triple-X strain. A large ranch is maintained at Breezy Point, with main offices of the company at Robbinsdale, Minn.

NATION PAYS BILL FOR FOREST FIRES

Timber Wastage a Matter of Concern to All.

Several thousand men have been battling in the forest fire zone in five states, where a dozen lives have been lost. United States soldiers from Fort Missoula were sent to the fire front that swept 30,000 acres on all sides of Glacier National park. Outside the Boise National forest 100,000 acres have been fire swept.

Foresters call the situation serious. In California, Idaho, Nevada, Montana and Washington, the situation "assumes a more serious aspect than at any time in the last decade," they say. Forest fires seem far away to the bulk of our population, but they mean something to the whole nation.

Twenty-nine million acres were swept by flames in 1924, according to the Forestry Primer published by the American Tree association of Washington. It is estimated it would cost $300,000,000 to reforest this burned-over land and that it would take almost three hundred years to accomplish it at the rate we are now doing it. There is a great lesson in knowing how long it takes Nature to produce this chief essential to man's comfort.

There were ninety-two thousand forest fires in the United States in 1924. This was at the rate of two hundred and fifty ever day. A large percentage of these were caused by carelessness of tourists and campers. By automobile millions of people go into the national and state forests in summer. These millions must make the proper handling of fire their first concern, the American Tree association says. The terrific drain on our forest products by fire losses must be cut down much closer to the point where lightning only can be blamed.

You do not get a first-hand idea of real heat until you get into the forest fire line where men battle until they drop. Do not leave a glowing spark in that camp fire! Break your match. In a second you undo what Nature has labored centuries to accomplish.

THOUSANDS OF FLOWERS

Crow Wing County Makes Strong Bid to Become Premier Flower County

Crow Wing county makes a strong bid through their flower show being held today at the court house towards establishing itself as the premier flower growing county in the state.

Positive proof that weather conditions in the county are ideal for the growing of hundreds of varieties of most beautiful flowers and plants is evidenced by the gorgeous array of flowers at the exhibits in the court house.

The pretty marble hall and farmers room on the first floor of the court house has been transformed into a bower of loveliness, exquisite beyond description by the dazzling beauty of thousands of flowers in a galaxy of color, that today attracted hundreds of visitors who were visibly stirred by the beauty of the scene.

Bordered by branches of sweet smelling tamarack boughs, the flower exhibits from an artistically arranged picture setting in the farmers room.

There are at least 50 different varieties of dahlias, 15 different varieties of sweet peas, zinnias, gladioli, peonies, iris, nasturtiums, on exhibit.

This morning was devoted to the arranging and entering of the exhibits. The judging took place early this afternoon.

L. P. Hall, Bay Lake, president of the Crow Wong County Flower society, today stated that although the conditions this season had not been as good as expected the flowers were even much better than previous seasons.

The sweepstake Dahlia prize was won by Mrs. W. J. Seacoy, Brainerd, who won the cup presented by the First National bank. The gladioli sweepstake prize was won by A. P. Cardle by his "Opalescent" winning the cup presented by the Citizens State bank. The name of the flower entered by Mrs. Seacoy, which won the Dahlia prize is the "Bashful Giant."

The judges were: A. J. Kilkus, River View Gardens, St. Paul, Mrs. George Kampmann, Sr., Brainerd, and A. A. Arnold, Brainerd.

There was a total of 360 entries. The success of the show is due to the unity of cooperation on the part of everyone and special credit is due to the committee on arrangements, the classification committee and the ladies of the society.

Western Union Men Will Convene at Brainerd's Lum Park for Annual Outing

DATE IS SUNDAY, AUGUST 22

More Than 1,000 Expected to Attend, Delegations from Minneapolis, St. Paul, Duluth

NOTE—The local Western Union office gave the Dispatch no intimation of the coming picnic until it had appeared in news stories sent out of Duluth by the Associated Press. When the matter was then taken up, a spirit of uncertainty prevailed, a statement being made that the picnic was to be transferred to Pine City.

At the suggestion of the Dispatch the local Western Union manager is trying to get in touch with the picnic head at St. Paul, assuring them Brainerd welcomes their coming and will extend every possible courtesy.

This is the story under a Duluth date line:

A sports program including baseball games, boxing matches, auto races and a "dot-and-dash" race, will feature the outing of Western Union telegraph employes from cities of the Northwest at Lum Park, Brainerd, Sunday, August 22.

More than 1,000 persons are expected to attend the outing, including telegraphers from St. Paul, Minneapolis, Fargo, Superior, Duluth and adjacent points. More than 40 cars carrying 200 persons will attend the outing from Duluth, Edward W. Hifferman, superintendent of the Duluth office, said, while large numbers from Superior, the Twin cities and cities in this locality, besides representatives from Fargo, will enjoy the frolic.

Two ball games in the morning, one between the Duluth and Fargo teams, and the second between St. Paul and Minneapolis nines are scheduled, with the winners to clash in the afternoon for the Western Union baseball championship.

Another feature of the outing will be a championship boxing tournament.

The Duluth key tappers will take part in a "dot and dash" race, and St. Paul and Minneapolis telegraphers will engage in the blue tag race.

An automobile race is scheduled for the closing event of the sports program.

TO TAKE BUMPS OUT OF INTERSECTION

6th and Laurel Streets to Have High Crosswalks Removed

WILL COST ABOUT $1,200

Repairing of Intersection at Willow and South 6th to Cost $500

Working on their general road improvement program to bring about better intersections in Brainerd with the event of the completion of the pavement on State Highway No. 27 which is scheduled to be completed the early part of October, the city council last evening at their regular session authorized the repairing and the placing of new pavement at intersections at the corner of Sixth and Laurel streets and on Willow and South 6th streets.

The cost of the repairing of the intersection at the corner of Sixth and Laurel streets according to City Engineer Campbell's estimation is placed at $1,200 while the cost of repairing the intersection at Willow and South Sixth streets is placed at $500.

City Engineer Campbell last evening submitted plans and specifications of the improvements to be made at the intersections. The one at the corner of Sixth and Laurel streets is to have all the bumps taken off and the corner put in better shape for the cars making the turns.

Alderman Martin Anderson Votes Against 6th and Laurel

Alderman Martin Anderson was the only one to vote against the reparing of the intersection at the corner of Sixth and Laurel streets but was the mover of the resolution to repair the intersection at the corner of Willow and South Sixth streets.

Claiming that the repairing of the intersection at the corner of Sixth and Laurel streets was not a necessity at this time and that the $1,200 could be put to a better use, Alderman Martin Anderson advocated putting off the repairing of the intersection, at this time.

"We need a storm sewer on 6th street to keep water out of the basements. We're going to wake up some time and find a lot of damage suits on our hands" said Alderman Martin Anderson, "$1200 is $1200. Goodness knows, we've been taxed heavy enough anyway."

"Don't you think it a necessity to fix up the intersection?" asked President W. J. Lyonais.

"No," replied Alderman Anderson.

"Do you think the band is a necessity?" asked President Lyonais.

"It's up to the people," replied Ald. Anderson.

"Don't cross the bridge till you come to it. Why make this expenditure now when the taxes are high," said Alderman Anderson.

Ald. Lewis: "The people in general feel that the corner ought to be levelled up."

On motion of Aldermen Quanstrom and Elvig, the resolution was adopted that the intersection at Sixth and Laurel streets be taken care of according to the plans of the city engineer. Alderman Martin Anderson was the only one to vote no.

On motion of Aldermen Martin Anderson and Holmstrom, a resolution was passed instructing the city engineer to take care of the intersection at Willow and 6th streets. The cost will amount to approximately $500.

The Nelson and Williams garage at 25 A street was granted a license to install a curb pump. A. J. Mraz was given a license to install a filling station at South 6th and Tamarack streets.

Repairing Old Fire Truck

The matter of repairing the old fire truck which the White Truck Co., of Minneapolis estimated would amount to approximately $1,000 was referred to the Fire, Light and Water committee.

A check was ordered issued to the Brainerd Municipal band for the year as the band has lived up to its contract.

The police department was given authority to purchase gas for one car to be used for duty only and to turn in the bill to the city council.

The matter of water settling on Oak street between 4th and 5th streets was left in the hands of the city engineer to repair.

The city engineer was further instructed to take care of the street signs at Gregory park.

Settlement of Tifft Case

The settlement of the Tifft case was left in the hands of the Finance Committee and the City Attorney.

Ald. Martin Anderson brought up the matter of improving the general condition of the rooms in the city hall and on motion, the City Property committee were instructed to inspect the rooms and make a report to the next meeting as to the repairs needed.

The Fire, Water and Light committee were given authority to instruct the City Water and Light Board to install arc lights at the corners of 5th and Quince, Ivy and 10th, and Laurel and 18th streets.

Rent for the Commercial College was placed at $25 a month for June, July, and August and $50 a month for the remaining nine months.

Excess Tonnage of Trucks

No action was taken on the matter of trucks carrying excess tonnage on the streets of Brainerd. City Attorney Fullerton announced that an ordinance would be necessary if action was to be taken on this matter.

It was felt that the loads carried by trucks in the city did not affect the condition of the streets any.

George Stein was granted 10 feet of parking space in front of the Ransford hotel.

BRAINERD MEN LOSE LICENSES

BOTH TAKE APPEAL FROM DECISION OF MUNICIPAL JUDGE RANDALL

Friday the thirteenth may be lucky for some people, but not for Clyde and William Stowell, of Brainerd, for Clyde and William were fined $100 and costs and had their licenses revoked when after a hearing before Judge P. S. Randall of Little Falls yesterday they were found guilty of driving while intoxicated.

The two men were first arrested August 4, on complaint of residents and arraigned before Judge Randall the next day, but they pleaded not guilty and the trial was set for the 13th—Friday the 13th.

Numerous residents, called as witnesses, testified that the men were drunk and driving recklessly and numerous other residents testified just as positively that the men were not drunk. Austin Grimes, attorney for the defense, took part in some interesting scenes when he attempted to obtain a definition of drunkenness, but, although few of the witnesses could give a clear definition, Judge Randall decided that there was sufficient evidence to find the men guilty.

Chief of Police Karnowski testified that one of the men offered him $10 to let him go free. "While we were walking to the jail," said the chief, one of the men turned to me and said, "I'll give you ten dollars if you'll let me go." I asked him to repeat what he had just said and he changed his tune to 'I'll give you ten dollars for bail.'"

Each of the men were tried and sentenced separately, but both received the same sentence: $100 fine and costs or 90 days in jail and the forfeit of their licenses for a period of three months. Upon serving notice of appeal, the bonds for each of the men were set at $150.—Little Falls Daily Transcript.

CHICAGO-TWIN CITY AIR MAIL SERVICE RESUMED

St. Paul, Aug. 17.—(UP)—Air mail service between Chicago and the Twin Cities was resumed on its former schedule today.

Charles Dickinson, of Chicago, wealthy patron of aviation, who cancelled his government contract to carry the mails, has yielded to the insistence of Twin City business men and postal authorities and will seek readjustment of the schedule.

Five-day service with Saturdays and Sundays eliminated, no stop at Milwaukee and possible passenger carrying development in conjunction with the mail are Dickinson's indicated plans.

Dickinson has not withdrawn his cancellation, which is effective in 45 days, but gave assurance that he would do all possible to continue service.

Since the air mail was started this summer, it has been operated at a loss to Dickenson.

CAPTAIN FAWCETT RECEIVES HONORS

Breezy Point Lodge Owner, National Publisher and Sportsman Entertained at Seattle

SEATTLE P.-I. GIVES STORY

Popular Humorist Made Ornery Member of Ethereal Order of Bats at Seattle

The Seattle Post-Intelligencer carries this story on Captain William H. Fawcett, owner of Breezy Point Lodge, nationally known publisher and writer, and sportsman, in its issue of Saturday, Aug. 14:

"W. H. Fawcett, known the world over as Captain Billy of "Whiz Bang" fame, and endeared to soldiers and sailors for his snappy jokes, was the featured guest last Thursday night at the regular weekly meeting of the Keep Joy Radiating Order of Bats when they broadcast their meeting over KJR.

"Captain Billy was given a ride on the Royal Bat and was initiated into the organization with all the honors that come to "ornery members" of this ethereal group of funmakers.

"The Ellenburg Rodeo Quartet, four young cowgirls, offered several harmony numbers that were well above the average and that called for a host of telephone calls.

"A trio of gobs from the U. S. S. New Mexico, featured at the Egyptian theatre this week, sang several pleasing songs.

"Walton McKinney, tenor, assisted by Sybil Galavante, W. C. (Bud) Weiser, accompanied by Mrs. Clyde Pheasant, and Dan Phillips and Madeline Piess gave entertaining numbers during the evening while Frances McClellan and Sybil Galavante offered popular piano numbers."

Elks and Eagles lodges of Seattle are to follow with special entertainments for the Captain, made guest of honor for successive occasions.

The Free Lance club composed of literary men and women, made him guest of honor last week at a large banquet, and the Captain gave one of the best after dinner talks heard for some time.

The Captain also was the guest of the Seattle Gun club at a special shoot at Fort Lawton. He scored first in the handicap shooting, and made a good mark in the regular shoot.

Before returning he also visited Vancouver and made a special trip to Prince Edward Island to see further steps in the fox farming industry as carried on there. It was here that the first known attempt at domesticating the silver fox was made by Charles Dalton in 1887. Captain Fawcett is president of Breezy Point Silver Foxes, Inc., breeders of Triple-X strain. A large ranch is maintained at Breezy Point, with main offices of the company at Robbinsdale, Minn.

NATION PAYS BILL FOR FOREST FIRES

Timber Wastage a Matter of Concern to All.

Several thousand men have been battling in the forest fire zone in five states, where a dozen lives have been lost. United States soldiers from Fort Missoula were sent to the fire front that swept 30,000 acres on all sides of Glacier National park. Outside the Boise National forest 100,000 acres have been fire swept.

Foresters call the situation serious. In California, Idaho, Nevada, Montana and Washington, the situation "assumes a more serious aspect than at any time in the last decade," they say. Forest fires seem far away to the bulk of our population, but they mean something to the whole nation.

SHAW IN A VITRIOLIC OUTBURST

CLAIMS ORGY OF FINANCIAL SWINDLING IN ENGLAND

BANKRUPTCY OR REBELLION TO FOLLOW IF NOT CHECKED

London, Aug. 17.—(UP)—George Bernard Shaw foresees bankruptcy or rebellion for Great Britain unless "the orgy of financial swindling which has raged since the war" is stopped.

Shaw wrote a letter to the Daily Herald, the socialist organ, complaining against the Herald's assumption that he merely was kidding the public again in an article in which he had said that by inflating her currency Britain has repudiated half of her internal war loans, corresponding to Liberty bonds in the United States.

Shaw contended that the financial experts were all wrong and asserted that in actual purchasing power the bonds were worth only half the price originally charged for them.

STOCK MARKET IS CAUTIOUS

New York, Aug. 17.—(UP)—Consideration involved in the recent advance in the rediscount rate to four per cent at this center has been causing Wall street to adopt an increasingly cautious attitude and this tendency was reflected in heavy selling of stocks today.

Traders who were ready to throw overboard their long holdings on the first signs of hesitation in the general list made large offerings when Steel common and General Motors developed reactionary tendencies. This liquidation added momentum to the downward trend which set in toward noon after Steel had established a high at 195⅝. In view of the pressure on Steel, the financial community devoted considerable attention for a stock distribution.

General Motors, DuPont, American Can, General Electric and other issues were also affected by the reverses in Steel.

VALENTINO CONTINUES STRUGGLE FOR LIFE

New York, Aug. 17.—(UP)—Rudolph Valentino, the film actor who won his fame by his ardent love-making on the screen, continued his fight for life at the Polyclinic hospital here today.

At 11 a. m. the physicians completed their morning consultation and issued a bulletin reading:

"Mr. Valentino passed a fairly comfortable night. There was no change in his condition to cause undue anxiety. His temperature was 101, pulse 100 and respiration 22."

Doctors Paul Durham, Harold D. Meeker and C. Rand Manning signed the bulletin.

New York, Aug. 17.—(UP)—Rudolph Valentino showed improvement today.

Health and vitality aided Valentino in his fight against incipient blood poisoning after a double operation.

He relaxed into a deep sleep in the early morning. Hospital physicians watching his progress said it was the most material aid to his strength that could have occurred.

The screen star has been able to take only slight nourishment, but his reserve of physical strength, his youth and clean living, have rallied to his support, doctors said.

The Opportunist Parent

By H. IRVING KING

(Copyright.)

OLD DAMON CAHOON was very angry indeed. Young George Braisted had had the impudence to ask permission to marry Damon's daughter, Laura. Now Laura was one of those girls so profusely endowed by nature with brains and beauty that she might reasonably aspire to higher things. Damon had resolved that he would have for a son-in-law no ordinary mortal. George Braisted was merely Damon's ward and a clerk in his office. He was the son of an old friend, it is true, and had inherited a comfortable little fortune. But not such a fortune as Laura was going to bring into the family!

So old Damon had driven George from his presence with contumely and had forbidden Laura even to think of the young man. Laura and George, of course, were cast into the doleful dumps; but they declared they would never, never cease to love each other and never, never marry anybody else. George's fortune was so tied up by the will that he would not come into it until he was twenty-five; and he had six months to wait before he arrived at that mature age. When he did! Well, he would be his own master then and old Damon would see. He rather expected to be "fired" from his job in Damon's office but he was not. He thought of resigning but concluded to hang on until his final settlement with the hard-hearted tyrant of a guardian.

For several weeks George got only black looks and short words from his employer and repaid them in kind. Then Damon's air toward his ward began to thaw. In the course of a couple of weeks more it became quite genial. George was uneasy: what did this change of front portend? Had Damon seen the error of his ways, and was he preparing to rescind his former interdict? Or had he some subtle scheme up his sleeve? George was very much afraid that it was the latter that the old man had. Could it be that Damon had won over his daughter to consent to marry some person of her father's choosing and felt so elated at his victory that he could afford to be genial?

George had been forbidden to call upon Laura, and they had been forbidden to write to each other. But, somehow, they managed to meet each other quite "accidentally" with amazing frequency.

Whenever Laura was allowed to go shopping unattended by a dragon aunt, she was sure to run across George. And George had perceived no faltering of Laura in her love for him.

The very next day Damon came to George's desk and said, "George, perhaps I was rather hasty about you and Laura. You may call at the house again if you want to."

The fact was that Damon was to a Dickens of a fix. The "market" had gone against him; he had been caught and "squeezed." To protect himself he had been obliged to use some of his ward's money, and while he had thought to be able to replace it almost immediately he now saw with horror that there was every prospect that he had sent some of George's money after his own. He was "overextended" and faced an appalling crisis. One thing he would not do; he would not touch another cent of George's, even though it might save him from bankruptcy. But if the crash came the fact that he had already used some of his ward's money was bound to come out, and he shuddered as he thought of it. But if George was his son-in-law—why, then the matter might be quietly "ironed out." Hence his change of front. And one night, when Damon had decided that there was no possible hope for his pulling through he went so far as to say: "Well, well; I suppose you young folks will want to get married some day. Go ahead—you have my permission." He said it laughingly—for Damon was a great dissembler.

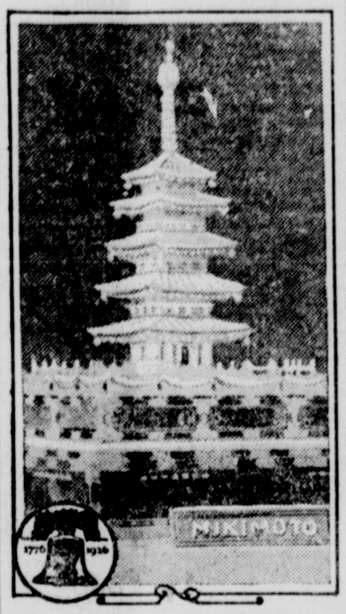

But the very next day something happened which caused Damon to go into his private office, lock the door and dance a double shuffle. His joy was dimmed by only one thing—his sudden remembrance of what he had said to George and Laura the night before. But—well, he could unsay it. He was an opportunist, was old Damon. The cause of Damon's rejoicing was this: The stocks which he was carrying had all started to go up and they were going up "a whooping." Another day like this and he would not only be out of the woods but he saw his way to a handsome profit. George's money would be put back where it came from: the incident would be closed.

And Damon did have another day of it and saw that all was well with him financially. Then he turned his attention to his domestic affairs and walked in upon Laura and George in the evening, as they sat unsuspectingly billing and cooing in the back parlor. He walked in upon them scowling. "I have been thinking over what I said about you two getting married," said he, "and I have come to the conclusion that it won't do. No, not for a minute."

"Oh, papa, I am so sorry," said Laura, "for you see George and I thought it would be all right—and got married this morning."

Damon gasped. Then, stretching out his hand, he said: "Bless you, my children"—an opportunist to the last.

SHAW IN A VITRIOLIC OUTBURST

CLAIMS ORGY OF FINANCIAL SWINDLING IN ENGLAND

BANKRUPTCY OR REBELLION TO FOLLOW IF NOT CHECKED

London, Aug. 17.—(UP)—George Bernard Shaw foresees bankruptcy or rebellion for Great Britain unless "the orgy of financial swindling which has raged since the war" is stopped.

Shaw wrote a letter to the Daily Herald, the socialist organ, complaining against the Herald's assumption that he merely was kidding the public again in an article in which he had said that by inflating her currency Britain has repudiated half of her internal war loans, corresponding to Liberty bonds in the United States.

Shaw contended that the financial experts were all wrong and asserted that in actual purchasing power the bonds were worth only half the price originally charged for them.

"The orgy of state and financial swindling which has raged since the war under such dope terms as inflation, revaluation, reduction of the debt, and so forth," Shaw wrote, "must be halted or we all will crash into bankruptcy or rebellion after reducing the purchasing power of money to zero."

STOCK MARKET IS CAUTIOUS

New York, Aug. 17.—(UP)—Consideration involved in the recent advance in the rediscount rate to four per cent at this center has been causing Wall street to adopt an increasingly cautious attitude and this tendency was reflected in heavy selling of stocks today.

Traders who were ready to throw overboard their long holdings on the first signs of hesitation in the general list made large offerings when Steel common and General Motors developed reactionary tendencies. This liquidation added momentum to the downward trend which set in toward noon after Steel had established a high at 195⅝. In view of the pressure on Steel, the financial community devoted considerable attention for a stock distribution.

General Motors, DuPont, American Can, General Electric and other issues were also affected by the reverses in Steel.

VALENTINO CONTINUES STRUGGLE FOR LIFE

New York, Aug. 17.—(UP)—Rudolph Valentino, the film actor who won his fame by his ardent love-making on the screen, continued his fight for life at the Polyclinic hospital here today.

At 11 a. m. the physicians completed their morning consultation and issued a bulletin reading:

"Mr. Valentino passed a fairly comfortable night. There was no change in his condition to cause undue anxiety. His temperature was 101, pulse 100 and respiration 22."

Doctors Paul Durham, Harold D. Meeker and C. Rand Manning signed the bulletin.

New York, Aug. 17.—(UP)—Rudolph Valentino showed improvement today.

Health and vitality aided Valentino in his fight against incipient blood poisoning after a double operation.

He relaxed into a deep sleep in the early morning. Hospital physicians watching his progress said it was the most material aid to his strength that could have occurred.

The screen star has been able to take only slight nourishment, but his reserve of physical strength, his youth and clean living, have rallied to his support, doctors said.

The Opportunist Parent

By H. IRVING KING

(Copyright.)

OLD DAMON CAHOON was very angry indeed. Young George Braisted had had the impudence to ask permission to marry Damon's daughter, Laura. Now Laura was one of those girls so profusely endowed by nature with brains and beauty that she might reasonably aspire to higher things. Damon had resolved that he would have for a son-in-law no ordinary mortal. George Braisted was merely Damon's ward and a clerk in his office. He was the son of an old friend, it is true, and had inherited a comfortable little fortune. But not such a fortune as Laura was going to bring into the family!

So old Damon had driven George from his presence with contumely and had forbidden Laura even to think of the young man. Laura and George, of course, were cast into the doleful dumps; but they declared they would never, never cease to love each other and never, never marry anybody else. George's fortune was so tied up by the will that he would not come into it until he was twenty-five; and he had six months to wait before he arrived at that mature age. When he did! Well, he would be his own master then and old Damon would see. He rather expected to be "fired" from his job in Damon's office but he was not. He thought of resigning but concluded to hang on until his final settlement with the hard-hearted tyrant of a guardian.

For several weeks George got only black looks and short words from his employer and repaid them in kind. Then Damon's air toward his ward began to thaw. In the course of a couple of weeks more it became quite genial. George was uneasy: what did this change of front portend? Had Damon seen the error of his ways, and was he preparing to rescind his former interdict? Or had he some subtle scheme up his sleeve? George was very much afraid that it was the latter that the old man had. Could it be that Damon had won over his daughter to consent to marry some person of her father's choosing and felt so elated at his victory that he could afford to be genial?

George had been forbidden to call upon Laura, and they had been forbidden to write to each other. But, somehow, they managed to meet each other quite "accidentally" with amazing frequency.

Whenever Laura was allowed to go shopping unattended by a dragon aunt, she was sure to run across George. And George had perceived no faltering of Laura in her love for him.

The very next day Damon came to George's desk and said, "George, perhaps I was rather hasty about you and Laura. You may call at the house again if you want to."

The fact was that Damon was in a Dickens of a fix. The "market" had gone against him; he had been caught and "squeezed." To protect himself he had been obliged to use some of his ward's money, and while he had thought to be able to replace it almost immediately he now saw with horror that there was every prospect that he had sent some of George's money after his own. He was "overextended" and faced an appalling crisis. One thing he would not do; he would not touch another cent of George's, even though it might save him from bankruptcy. But if the crash came the fact that he had already used some of his ward's money was bound to come out, and he shuddered as he thought of it. But if George was his son-in-law—why, then the matter might be quietly "ironed out." Hence his change of front. And one night, when Damon had decided that there was no possible hope for his pulling through he went so far as to say: "Well, well; I suppose you young folks will want to get married some day. Go ahead—you have my permission." He said it laughingly—for Damon was a great dissembler.

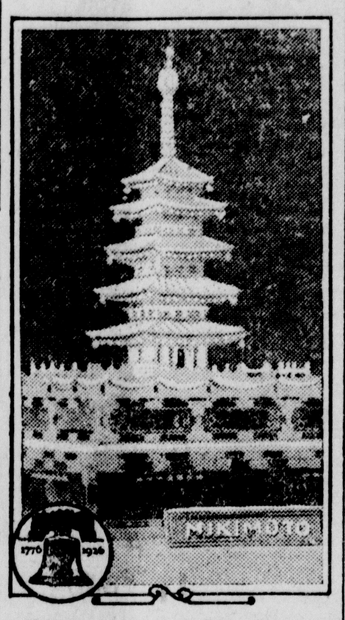

But the very next day something happened which caused Damon to go into his private office, lock the door and dance a double shuffle. His joy was dimmed by only one thing—his sudden remembrance of what he had said to George and Laura the night before. But—well, he could unsay it. He was an opportunist, was old Damon. The cause of Damon's rejoicing was this: The stocks which he was carrying had all started to go up and they were going up "a whooping." Another day like this and he would not only be out of the woods but he saw his way to a handsome profit. George's money would be put back where it came from: the incident would be closed.

And Damon did have another day of it and saw that all was well with him financially. Then he turned his attention to his domestic affairs and walked in upon Laura and George in the evening, as they sat unsuspectingly billing and cooing in the back parlor. He walked in upon them scowling. "I have been thinking over what I said about you two getting married," said he, "and I have come to the conclusion that it won't do. No, not for a minute."

"Oh, papa, I am so sorry," said Laura, "for you see George and I thought it would be all right—and got married this morning."

Damon gasped. Then, stretching out his hand, he said: "Bless you, my children"—an opportunist to the last.
